U.K. House Condemns S. Africa Race Policy

May Be Raised At PM's Meet

LONDON (CP)—The House of Commons today passed a resolution condemning South African racial policies and asking the government to take up the issue at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference next month.

The private motion, by Labor MP John Stonehouse, was approved by a voice vote.

Conservative, Labor and Liberal MPs joined in unusually strong attacks on the policies of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd.

Stonehouse urged South African whites to "recognize the insanity of apartheid" and be prepared to negotiate with African leaders.

"If they go on with this insane military dictatorship in an attempt to suppress 11,000,000 people, they are inviting disaster and widespread violence," he warned.

The motion was supported by Sir Godfrey Nicholson, Conservative, who said "utter catastrophe may result" unless South Africans accept the need for a multi-racial society.

C. J. M. Alport, minister of state for Commonwealth relations, told the House he was against putting the issue on the formal conference agenda.

POLICE KILL 25 NEGROES

DUALA, Cameroon Republic (UPI)—Police killed 25 Negroes in this West African port city Thursday night when they opened fire with tommy-guns on a rampaging mob of 200 terrorists.

Four policemen were killed, including a French police officer, and six were wounded.

Bill Aimed At Stricter Censorship

CAPETOWN, South Africa (Reuters)—The government has introduced a bill aimed at outlawing "undesirable" newspapers, magazines, books, movies, phonograph records and other entertainment.

The bill, however, has been referred to a committee and may be amended.

Under the present bill, reading and other materials would be considered "undesirable" if they endanger the safety of the state, have the effect of disturbing the peace or offend the feelings of any section of the country's multi-racial population.

Enforcement regarding newspapers would be left up to the government with prosecution instituted only on the authority of the attorney-general. But a publications board or council would have jurisdiction concerning other reading material, films, records and entertainment. These media could take their cases to a board of appeal which would have the final decision.

FINE OR JAIL

A first offence in both fields, sources say, would be punishable with a maximum fine of three months in jail or both.

Subsequent offences could draw fines of £200, a year in jail, or both.

South African newspapers have been cautious to avoid being accused of inciting the people. Johannesburg newspapers informed their readers this week that they were forbidden under the emergency regulations from carrying certain stories.

The nationalist newspaper Vanderland reported that censorship may be imposed on dispatches by foreign correspondents because their reports about racial clashes are getting back to South Africa.

London newspapers sell out quickly the minute they appear on the stands here. Many South Africans think they are not getting the full story of the racial strife in their own papers and rush for any foreign newspapers available.

The Associated Press reports, External Affairs Minister Eric Louw told Parliament that many overseas journalists who came to South Africa send "wildly exaggerated and in many cases completely untrue reports" to their newspapers and agencies.

The minister said the South African Information Service daily supplies its information officers abroad with factual information regarding the events here, and this was being passed on to the press in those countries.

CHARLES ANNE ENJOY MOVIE

LONDON (AP)—The heir to the throne sat in a movie house sucking a lollipop.

Hardly anyone recognized Prince Charles, aged 11.

Beside him was his sister, nine-year-old Princess Anne.

She sucked a lollipop, too.

The royal children paid their surprise visit to the movie Thursday afternoon, accompanied by a Scotland Yard detective and their governess.

They saw Sink the Bismarck and a series of newsreels on the life of Princess Margaret.

FAIRCLOUGH
DUCKS QUERY ON REBRIN

OTTAWA (UPI)—Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough today dodged an Opposition request to make public full details behind the government's decision to deport University of British Columbia language expert Irene Rebrin.

The minister told the Commons that her statement on Thursday, in which she said the government had classified "security" reasons for supporting the deportation order, was a full one.

The request for details was made by W. H. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West). He said the full story should be revealed "in the name of justice and fairness" to the 33-year-old Miss Rebrin, who claims she has no idea why she was refused permanent entry.

OL' VIC SAYS:

Th' way th' boys are gittin' ready for South Africa, the Commonwealth meetin' goin' to be a primed Ministers' Conference.

Seems a lot o' folks are havin' their launch at th' Arena these days.

NEW PRINCE BAPTIZED AT PALACE

LONDON (UPI)—Prince Andrew of Britain was christened today in the gown his mother wore at her own christening.

Some 60 persons—members and friends of the Royal Family—attended the christening in the music room of Buckingham Palace, the same one in which Prince Charles and Princess Anne were christened.

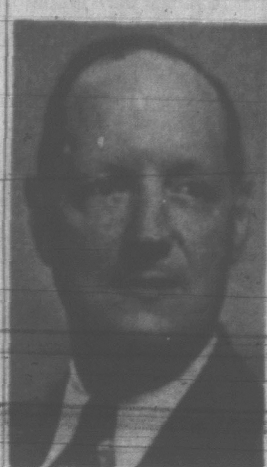

Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, the Archbishop of Canterbury, performed the standard Church of England christening service with water from the River Jordan.

Andrew wore the historic robe of Honiton lace, handed down in the Royal Family from the days of Queen Victoria.

FIVE GODPARENTS

The seven-week-old Prince had five godparents: The Duke of Gloucester, Princess Alexandra, Lord Elphinstone (the Queen's cousin), and two life-long friends of the Queen, the Earl of Euston and Mrs. Harold Phillips.

At the Queen's order, no photographs were taken for publication. But Prince Philip and Antony Armstrong-Jones, a professional photographer who will wed Princess Margaret on May 6, snapped pictures for the royal album.

DIES SUDDENLY

Stan Taylor, registrar of companies for B.C., died suddenly Thursday in Calgary. Mr. Taylor, 63, had suffered from a heart condition for five years. (See story on page 17.)

AIRLINER SABOTAGED?

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—Dutch air officials today ordered police to investigate the possibility of attempted sabotage of a KLM airliner which crashed off Ireland in 1958, killing 99 persons.

The president of the inquiry board said it has received information "which makes it desirable to investigate whether the liner had one or more persons on board whose disappearance might have been sought for political or similar reasons."

The work situation was more nearly normal today than at any time since Negro demonstrations against carrying identification passes flared into violence three weeks ago.

Thousands of Negroes who burned their passes at the height of the campaign of defiance have applied for new ones. They must have these "internal passports" to move around or work.

The Associated Press reported that most Negroes now appear to be back at work in disregard of the campaign of the now outlawed militant leaders to keep them home in protest.

But the calm that prevailed was uneasy.

Breaking into a play, the South African Broadcasting Corporation Thursday night read a long list of reservists and ordered them to report for duty immediately.

Resistance in their raid Thursday on the big Negro township of Nyanga East, but released all but 162 after screening.

Sacks of weapons—guns, clubs, knives and meat axes—were found in the township.

A scene of bloody clashes Monday.

Col. J. P. Terblanche, deputy police commissioner of Cape town, said the Negroes in the settlement had been "living in a reign of terror," and that the cleanup raids were being carried out to give protection to law-abiding Negroes.

Labor Bucks Peace Hydro

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC) said today it will oppose the plans of the Peace River Power Development Company at a Public Utilities Commission hearing.

Secretary Pat O'Neal said the federation's policy is public ownership of all power utilities.

He did not expect opposition to the brief from construction unions in northern B.C. who might benefit from the project.

FANNY THE FLAME TO SPARK TORCH

ROME (AP)—"Fanny the Flame" is about to become the first flat-chested woman ever to attract much attention in this land of luscious Latins.

The near-nude, 14-foot-high bronze figure will thrust the Olympic torch skyward in front of the new sports palace at the 1960 Rome Games.

She's a long-legged gal with curvy hips and a well-rounded tummy. But one of the big mysteries of the coming Olympics is almost sure to be: Why does she wear that shoestring brassiere?

She couldn't need one less. Even her sculptor says the bra covers not even a hidden meaning.

"I was concentrating everything on the torch she bears," said sculptor Emilio Greco. "The only reason for the other lines are stylistic and architectural. There is no hidden meaning."

The shoestring bra and an equally thin band around the bulging hips were put on "just because it looked better that way," Greco explained.

"And aren't the knees a little knobby?" Greco was asked.

"She represents sport," the sculptor explained. "Sport cannot be depicted by soft lines."

The statue was ordered by the Italian Olympic committee to be placed in front of the sports palace where Olympic boxing and basketball will be held. It is being cast in bronze now and will be completed by July.

Greco, at 46, is one of Italy's greatest sculptors. His works are in major museums around the world.

NEW RED DISARMAMENT PROPOSALS

Pledge Not to Use A-Bomb First Asked

GENEVA (Reuters)—Russia called today on the world's nuclear powers to make a solemn pledge never to be the first to use nuclear weapons.

Valerian Zorin, chief Soviet delegate, called for the pledge as an act of goodwill as he presented a five-point document as a proposed basis of negotiation at the 10-power disarmament conference here.

But Western conference sources said the new document represented no change in the Soviet position and would not help break the deadlock which has developed here following each side's rejection of the other's disarmament proposals.

In addition to the pledge not to use nuclear weapons first, Zorin called for discussion on:

1. The scope of disarmament measures.

2. Stages in which disarmament would be completed.

3. Control system provisions.

4. The position at the end of disarmament.

LEAD TO AGREEMENT

Zorin argued that the pledge on nuclear arms would create appropriate conditions for an early agreement on a disarmament treaty.

He said the states with nuclear arms participating in the talks here—the United States, Russia, Britain and France—should "solemnly declare that they renounce to be the first to use such weapons."

Western delegations—the U.S., Britain, France, Italy and Canada—said they would study Zorin's document, but their first reaction was that it contained nothing new.

'Scrap Community Chest'

(Compiled from CP)
VANCOUVER—A suggestion that the Community Chest appeal for funds be scrapped and the government pay the way was voiced Thursday at the first meeting of a citizens' committee which is re-examining the role of the chest and other groups which appeal to the public for funds.

The committee, composed of five men and two women, is headed by R. G. Miller.
He said the committee would not be conducting an investigation of all 59 agencies in the Chest, but would take a long and broad look which might conclude with a recommendation that a detailed survey be made.

He said an interim report would be issued in four months.
The committee also suggested several other ideas to be considered.

One plan called for three appeals each year, one for welfare, the second for health and medical research and the third for culture.

Another was to have the city council issue licences for public appeals.

MURDER CHARGE

VANCOUVER—A charge of murder was laid against Walter Harold Merrifield, 35, Thursday in the switchyard death of a CPR news agent nearly two months ago.

Police charged Merrifield in connection with the death of Johanna Striegel, 30, and he was to appear in police court today.

HOME IN PARK

VANCOUVER—A tall, bearded man said in police court here Thursday that he made his home in Stanley Park for three weeks, eating only what he was able to steal.

John Thrasher, 24, appeared in court on a charge of breaking into a cafe. He told the magistrate he lived in the 1,000-acre woodland because he could not find work since leaving jail a month ago. He was sentenced to nine months in jail.

TOMATOES CUT OFF

VERNON—The two remaining tomato processing plants in operation in the Okanagan may be forced to suspend operations soon unless some measure of alleviation is forthcoming for the industry. T. R. Bulman, president of Bulman's Products Limited, said Thursday.

BLOW KILLS BABY

VANCOUVER—Police are investigating the circumstances surrounding the death of a seven-month-old girl. An autopsy showed Carol Ann Hurren suffered a blow to the back of her head.

SOCCER STAR KILLED

PRINCE RUPERT—A 21-year-old Italian soccer player died in hospital late Thursday night after the car he was driving skidded off Highway 16 near here and overturned in a pond.

Dead is Mario Santurbano, who died despite the efforts of a Port Edward school teacher, Mrs. Jacqueline Peters, to revive him by artificial respiration both at the scene of the accident and in the Prince Rupert city ambulance.

LITTLE CIVIC THEATRE

VANCOUVER—City council has approved an 800-seat $1,500,000 little civic theatre to be built adjacent to the Queen Elizabeth Theatre, downtown. The theatre will be used for drama groups and other presentations considered too small for the 2,800-seat Queen Elizabeth.

U.S. AUTHOR TANGLES WITH LONDON CRITICS

LONDON (UPI)—American playwright William Saroyan and the London critics currently are starring in an off-stage melodrama which features some of the spiciest dialogue of the season.

The action centres around a Saroyan play which opened here Wednesday night called "Sam, the Highest Jumper of Them All."

Saroyan is confident the allegorical tale about man's resignation to "non-greatness" will help him pay off the $60,000 in back taxes which he owes the U.S. government. The critics doubt it will stay open long enough to pay his one-way ticket home.

This is a sample of how the dialogue ran as the critics panned and Saroyan counter-panned in an interview Thursday night.

Critic (Evening Standard): "A rag-bag of shallow nonsense."

Saroyan: "These critics have narrow, rigid minds that can't seem to admit a new idea."

Critic (Daily Telegraph): "If the play has a coherent meaning, I for one am unable to capture it."

SAROYAN
... he likes 'Sam'

Saroyan: "Personally I think Sam is one of the most interesting plays I ever saw."

First-Nighters Crowd Boat Show

By DON INGHAM
Jubilant Vic-Van-Isle Kingmen announced today that 3,100 persons attended their second annual boat show at the Victoria Curling Club Thursday night, to top the first-night attendance last year by at least 1,000.

Doors opened at 6 p.m., and Mayor Percy Scourrah, accompanied by Mrs. Scourrah, conducted the official opening of the $500,000 display at 7:30.

He drew attention to some of the boats in the show, and said boating is growing more popular every year.

"It's a fine industry, and we have a wonderful place here to enjoy it," he said.

STAR OF SHOW

Star of the show is Miss Bardahl, who paid court to a steady flow of admirers at her place of honor across one end of the big tent beside the curling rink.

The 2,200-horsepower hydro-plane, United States national champion in 1958 and runner-up in 1959, rests on her special trailer with her Rolls-Royce Merlin engine in place.

On Sunday, between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m., she will be rolled outside in order that photographers, amateur and professional, night take pictures. At 1 p.m. her engine will be removed for travelling and she will return to Seattle.

The show will be open to night from 6 to 10:30 p.m., and on Saturday from 1 to 11:59 p.m. It was to have closed at 10:30 p.m. Saturday, but time was extended to accommodate hockey fans after the Victoria-Vancouver game here.

Two Bandits Hijack Payroll

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Benjamin McLaughlin, an office manager who picks up his company's payroll alone every Thursday, was hijacked by two men Thursday and robbed of $6,400.

The money was the weekly wages for 150 employees of Kitchen Overall & Shirt Company.

Police said McLaughlin was driving into the company parking lot when two men walked up, one on each side of his car. They wore khaki overalls, painters' hats and dark glasses and held handkerchiefs to their noses.

McLaughlin said later there was work on around the factory and he believed the two were workmen until they pulled guns and bundled him back into the car. One drove and the other held the manager.

After a short ride, the two taped McLaughlin's eyes and mouth and bound his hands behind him with wire before shoving him beneath the dashboard. They left him there when they abandoned the car about half a mile from the factory.

Veteran MPs Alarmed At High Defence Cost

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA (CP)—Two of the more elderly members of Parliament looked ruefully at Canada's huge defence bill Thursday and wished that the money could be devoted to something more constructive.

The high cost of running the country's defence establishment—estimated at more than $1,586,000,000 in the current fiscal year—drew the attention of both H. W. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West) and Hon. J. M. Macdonnell (PC, Toronto Greenwood). Both are veterans of the First World War.

Mr. Herridge, 66, reiterated his party's call for planned elimination of wasteful defence expenditures. Mr. Macdonnell, 75, former minister without portfolio in the Conservative government, bemoaned the expenditure of millions of dollars on weapons that "are already obsolete."

Both members, speaking in a budget debate that ranged far and wide but seldom dealt with the 1960-61 budget, advocated increased economic assistance to underdeveloped countries.

PM Urged to Lead at Conference

He said he was referring to the deterrent value of a "working economy in the world," which would permit the emergence of political and social conditions under which free institutions can exist.

Mr. Macdonnell suggested that Prime Minister Diefenbaker should take the lead at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference next month in "great steps" of further economic aid to underdeveloped lands.

Mr. Herridge said that "for a start" Canada could save $300,000,000 by eliminating wasteful defence expenditures, as proposed by the CCF in a non-confidence motion new before the House. He added that the saving would more than take care of a one-third boost in disability war pensions; increases in war veterans' allowances; a $10-a-month boost in the old-age pension; and civil service salary increases totaling $50,000,000.

Mr. Herridge also called for a capital gains tax and a national investment policy to develop idle resources and give employment to the jobless.

FRENCH FARMERS RIOT AGAINST PRICE-FIXING

SENS, France (AP)—Ten thousand angry farmers battled riot police Thursday night after a mass demonstration against government price-fixing farm policies.

Authorities reported 12 police officers and three demonstrators were injured.

About 200,000 farmers massed at 15 farm meetings in a nationwide show of protest. The farmers claim the price ceilings, aimed at keeping down the rising cost of living for city workers, are eating away farm profits.

De Gaulle Acclaimed For Success in U.K.

PARIS (CP)—President de Gaulle arrived back in Paris by air today after his three-day state visit to Britain amid widespread acclaim here over the success of the trip.

Paris newspapers of all shades of opinion conclude that, despite domestic problems in France, the president's international standing has reached a new high.

In 10 days de Gaulle flies to Canada for a three-day visit and thence to the United States for an eight-day tour. He then returns to his capital for the East-West summit talks.

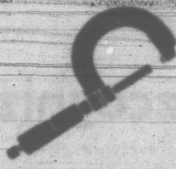

The public reception for de

Gaulle in Britain was equalled only by that given President Eisenhower last year.

The French president addressed a joint session of Parliament's two Houses, something no foreign chief of state has done since the war. He reviewed the Queen's household troops on parade, something no foreign chief of state has done in recorded history.

HE'D OUTDO 'KILL-IN-A-MINUTE' GAS

New Poison Weapons Urged on U.S.

CLEVELAND (AP)—An army chemical warfare expert says the United States should push to develop chemical weapons even more potent than "kill-in-a-minute" nerve gases already possessed by the U.S. and Russia.

Hinting that some such effort may already be under way, but that an adequate program would require vigorous public support, Dr. William H. Summerson, a deputy commander of the chemical corps' research and development command, asserted:

... It is to our national interest to uncover as yet-unrevealed toxicological secrets at least as rapidly as a potential enemy nation can do so, and preferably before he does. Summerson made the statements at a symposium wherein he and other government scientists painted a grim picture of the "threat" to the U.S. and its allies arising from possible chemical and germ warfare—and the need for assuring strong defences and counter-measures.

Footloose in the Headlines

ONE THING ABOUT PREMIER Bennett—you always know when he is in town. We are glad to hear that he has returned in good health and spirits after his well-earned holiday to begin making his daily headlines again.

But if the Premier's presence in his capital is always obvious his thoughts are not. What, for example, is the public to take from his latest announcement that the full electrical development of the Columbia and Peace Rivers must proceed simultaneously?

The federal Government, Mr. Paget, the provincial water controller and even Mr. Mainwaring, chief promoter of the Peace scheme, disagree with Mr. Bennett. They all believe, and have said publicly, that if the Columbia scheme goes ahead in the near future the full development of the Peace must be delayed for clear economic reasons. There are insufficient markets to absorb the complete output of both rivers for many years to come.

The judgment of Ottawa, the Peace promoters and his own chief technical adviser does not impress Mr. Bennett. He says Mr. Paget has done a good job in his recent report but happens to be wrong in saying that the Columbia scheme must affect the early exploitation of the Peace.

Thus the Premier stands alone but that suits him well. He will go into his election as the man who fearlessly guarantees two gigantic power projects, costing about $2 billions, which the opposition parties consider impossible at present.

But Mr. Bennett will not decide this issue. It will be decided in the money markets, by private investors. Can the Peace promoters get huge sums, variously estimated up to a billion dollars, for their scheme if the Columbia is clearly going ahead to provide all the extra power that British Columbia can use in the next ten years or so?

That is the real question and Mr. Bennett cannot answer it. Most likely he would prefer to have it unanswered until the polls close so that he can seek election on a great and doubtful promise. In the election campaign he will try to have the best of all possible worlds. This would make an attractive issue for Mr. Bennett if he can arrange it and if the public will believe it.

It is difficult to understand his latest comment on the financial arrangements for the Columbia scheme. He says that if Ottawa offers a loan for the construction costs he will accept it, provided the money is available "at the best rates." Otherwise the provincial Government will borrow it through the Power Commission.

But surely the federal Government, with the nation's entire credit behind it, can borrow money more cheaply than the provincial Government?

It has been rumored that Ottawa would borrow about $1.4 billion and loan it to the province at an eight per cent above the market rate, but no official announcement has been made. Even with this small carrying charge the cost might well be lower than that of a provincial loan.

Such details have yet to be settled and they don't worry Mr. Bennett at the moment when he is promising the two largest power developments in Canada simultaneously and hopes to win re-election before a disagreeable choice must be made between them. Meanwhile he will continue to provide the newspaper correspondents with headlines but the public with little real information.

The Parking and Mall Vote

THE CITY COUNCIL HAS asked the people most directly affected to vote on the $1,000,000 View Street parking centre and shopping mall. The issue will go to property owners in the central business district on May 5. This seems a sensible way of reaching a decision on the proposed improvement.

About $100,000 a year for the next 20 years will be required to finance the $1,000,000 project. At present the income from parking meters runs about $150,000 annually. The proposal is to double meter rates downtown and to add to these returns income from the parking building when it becomes available. By this means it is expected that a minimum of another $150,000 a year will be raised.

This added revenue will be applied to meet the costs of the parking building and shopping mall. However, should the sum fall below the minimum $100,000 requirement property holders in the central business district will be required to make up any deficit on lines similar to those used for local improvement taxes.

The logic of the proposed downtown owners' vote seems sound. Those holding property in the business district stand to profit most if the improvement prevents "heart disease" in the core of the city. The value of their holdings will be maintained or increased.

Taxpayers outside the central district also have a stake in the arrangement. If the development is not undertaken and the high-assessment area deteriorates, someone else would have to take up the slack caused by falling assessments and reduced tax payments. It is therefore in the interest of all city taxpayers to see a well-planned, efficiently-executed regeneration of the city centre carried forward.

French Without Tears

IN MOST OF CANADA'S English-speaking provinces students are taught French only when they reach high school. Then they are taught it with indifferent success.

To be sure, they learn to write and read the nation's second official language, they master all those irregular French verbs, but they can seldom conduct a conversation in anything but English—as they soon realize if they go to Quebec or France.

On the other hand, most French Canadians, at least in the larger cities, get along pretty well in English. Quebec is our only true bilingual province. This gives the French Canadian a great and well-deserved advantage in politics and in business, which recognize no ethnic lines.

The school board of Winnipeg, close to the French-speaking but bilingual suburb of St. Boniface, has been considering the introduction of French language studies into the lower grades of the public schools.

In Grade One, or perhaps a year or two later, the Winnipeg child would begin to learn French at the best possible time, when his mind is receptive.

Children master a foreign tongue much more easily than adults, picking it up as they go along, almost unconsciously.

Victoria is now in the fourth year of a successful experiment in this field. Selected Grade 5 classes have been started on French studies, with particular attention to conversational use, and the first to be so taught are now showing beneficial results in high school. On the basis of this experience, Grade 5 French instruction will no doubt be extended eventually through all the schools, and perhaps introduced at an even earlier stage.

Canada is far from bilingual in practice, and it is hoped that local efforts may be noted by other provinces with a view to similar action.

Not Enough Readers

THE CURRENT CANADIAN Library Week provides some unpleasant figures. In the number of bookshops per capita Canada ranks as the 14th among the literate nations of the world. It is small comfort to hear that the United States has sunk to 15th place.

We have one bookshop for every 18,125 Canadians whereas Austria, for example, has one for every 2,745. Denmark, Australia, Italy, Britain, The Netherlands, Belgium, Russia, West Germany, France, Switzerland, Sweden and Norway—in that order, all have more bookshops per capita than Canada.

Only about 26 per cent of Canadians have recently read a book, the sponsors of Library Week conclude from their polls. In 1953 the figure was 31 per cent and, in 1945, 40 per cent.

On the other hand, lending libraries report an increasing demand for books. There are more book borrowers in Canada than ever before. "The prospect," says the Library Week Council, "is not a bleak one but we still have far to go before we can call ourselves a well-informed nation."

The trouble is that the required information, by a literary version of Parkinson's Law, is continually increasing faster than the readership.

Roscoe Awards Recognize the Best

WITH the award of Oscars to the elite of the moving picture world, the time has come once more to turn to that larger world of affairs in which dramatic events are no less ably portrayed, comic talents no less broadly displayed, and the Muses no less devotedly served than on the flickering screen. The political scene provides the sound stage on which the action unfolds, and the voting public furnishes an enthusiastic audience for all productions. Since the performers are not unionized they have been unaffected by the actors' strike and have thus been able to devote full time to their careers. The results of those efforts may be seen in the following Roscoe Awards:

Best Actor: As on a previous occasion, this award must go to Mr. Bennett, who during the past year has put on the best act seen around here for many a long day. Through fair political weather and foul, through good fortune and bad, despite the burden of his enemies and even of his friends, he has acted his part in flawless fashion. When the part called for cheerfulness, he gave it cheerfulness; when he should have portrayed anxiety, he showed cheerfulness; when disaster loomed and a show of despair was in order, he was right there with cheerfulness.

On the grounds of consistently cheerful acting, therefore, Mr. Bennett stands head and smile above everyone else.

Best Supporting Actor: There were a number of nominations in this category but final choice fell on Mr. Diefenbaker. All judges agreed that he has done more supporting during the past year than anyone else in Canada. He has, for instance, supported a farm bill which almost no farmer will support. He has supported Mr. Fleming against Mr. Coyne, Mr. Churchill against Mr. Fleming, Mr. Pearkes against all logic, and in some cases Mr. Pearson's policies against his own. Only in his support of Mr. Green did he falter momentarily, but Mr. Green evidently forgave him and the judges felt they ought at least to match such magnanimity. When it is considered that many of the persons and causes which Mr. Diefenbaker supported were in conflict, the genius of his acting becomes evident. The decision was unanimous.

Right in There

Best Stand-in: Mr. Bonner was given all the votes in this category. During the absence of the Best Actor from the sound stage, he faced the cameras with aplomb and insouciance, denied charges, shrugged off criticisms, moved bills, answered questions without revealing anything, and in every way stood out as an understanding stand-in. The judges noted that while his stand on any given occasion might be difficult to determine, there was never at any time any doubt that he was in, and this proved to be the deciding factor.

Best Adventure Script: Mr. W. C.

Mainwaring takes the Roscoe in this category although a number of other entries were given careful consideration.

The judges were impressed with the fantastic nature of his plots and the intriguing way in which, on paper, they are brought through to success. It was recognized, of course, that his themes are essentially fictional, but it was not held to be a detriment as long as this aspect was widely understood by the public. An unofficial poll of the public on the Wenner-Gren scheme indicated that this was so, and the judges were therefore happy to make the award.

No Competition

Worst Horror Story: Mr. Verwoerd of South Africa. There were no other entries.

Best Photography: Mr. Coyne. It was felt that he was the only one who really got the picture.

Best Comedy Routine: Mr. Gagliardi. The judges were unanimous in this choice, noting that what was comedy to everybody else was just routine to Mr. Gagliardi.

Special Drama Award: (Twin plaques to be tossed into the headwaters of the Columbia and Peace Rivers.) The struggle between supporters of the development of these two rivers was judged to be the most dramatic event of the year. The fomented tension, the publicity, the international implications and the astronomical sums involved were held to be in the highest tradition of Hollywood, as was the well-sustained fantasy of the whole production.

Strange Guide to the Nation's Thinking

THE results of the Wisconsin primary have failed to provide a clear guide to the presidential nomination for the Democratic party.

In spite of his victory Senator Kennedy has yet to win the support of some party leaders who would have come openly to his side had his triumph been more spectacular. Senator Humphrey will not withdraw from the primary in West Virginia where his rivalry with Senator Kennedy will be renewed.

At the moment it may be said that Senator Humphrey, not really a major contender for the presidential nomination, has been given new hope by the Wisconsin contest; and Senator Kennedy has again displayed his gift for victory but he has paid a price for this success.

To his annoyance Senator Kennedy finds that the politicians and commentators are explaining the result in terms of religion. This explanation is being offered even though he carried many districts where the Catholic vote forms a feeble minority. There is no doubt that he drew the bulk of the Catholic vote.

No Bigotry

In the last two weeks of the campaign it was widely reported that four out of five Catholics in the state would vote for Senator Kennedy. To his honor Senator Humphrey challenged this estimate and refused to profit from religious bigotry.

But apparently the report went to its mark like a poisoned arrow. There was a stirring of resentment among Protestants, some of whom in the closing days of the campaign rallied to the Humphrey standard.

Senator Humphrey was also helped by the open support of friends of Senator Symington who wanted to stop Senator Kennedy, the leader at present in the race for the nomination. In addition Senator Humphrey began with the support of the three districts adjacent to his own state of Minnesota.

ONLY THE BEST TAKES OFF
Not many people realize that when a brand new airplane makes its first flight it is usually only one of three that have been built. One flies, but the other two are simply destroyed—tested to destruction on the ground.

This strength grew as he developed his attack on Senator Kennedy's voting record on farm policy.

Until 1956 Senator Kennedy had sometimes voted for lower price supports. Senator Humphrey magnified these votes until it almost seemed as if Senator Kennedy were a disciple of Mr. Benson's farm program, an unfair burden in a state where dairy income has fallen by 15 per cent.

Will the scars of this controversy remain with Senator Kennedy? His opponents have always said that he would be a weak candidate in the farm areas of the mid-west. They are pointing to Senator Humphrey's success in rural Wisconsin as proof that they were right.

Local Problems

Nothing that happens in West Virginia can affect this particular issue. The problems there will be the future of the coal industry, local unemployment, and the Kennedy Labor Bill.

But the Catholics form about 4 per cent of West Virginia's population, the smallest percentage in any state, as against something like one-third of Wisconsin's vote.

Senator Kennedy is entering West Virginia to show his strength in a state that is overwhelmingly Protestant. He has no other reason for submitting to this contest since the primary in West Virginia is a mere test of popularity with the result not being binding upon the delegates to the national convention.

What about Mr. Nixon's role in Wisconsin? As on so many things that touch the vice president, there is more controversy than agreement as the experts survey the result.

Personal Tribute

His friends are saying that his vote is a tribute to his popularity, when one remembers that there was no public interest in the unopposed Republican primary and when one also recalls that Mr. Nixon did not campaign at all.

His critics argue that Mr. Nixon suffered great discredit by failing to win a majority of votes in a Republican state. There the matter rests, though Governor Rockefeller is again beginning to stir ominously.

In retrospect it must be said that Wisconsin, whose loyalties have spanned the enormous distance from LaFollette to McCarthy, is a strange guide to a nation's thinking. Since 1905, when the Wisconsin primary was invented, not a single victor in this contest has ever become president and only one obtained the party's nomination.

April 8, 1900—So far as is known, Seattle has beaten Victoria this spring in the matter of securing the first strawberries of the season. They cost 50 cents a box.

April 8, 1920—London: Bishop Edwards of St. Asaph's was yesterday elected first archbishop of the newly established Church of England in Wales.

April 8, 1940—Arendal, Norway: A British submarine has torpedoed the 5,261-ton Rio de Janeiro and sent almost 300 unformed Germans to their deaths.

Family Skeleton

LONDON: Mr. Harold Macmillan announced bravely in the House of Commons that the prime ministers of all 11 Commonwealth countries had accepted invitations to attend the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference here in May.

For the sake of the record it may be well to name the 11: U.K., Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Ghana and Malaysia. The list speaks for itself and explains why Mr. Macmillan's announcement could be described as "brave."

He made it on the day on which the Government, following after the Labor and Liberal Opposition at Westminster, and after the State Department in the United States, expressed a view about the shooting of Africans at Vereeniging and Langa in South Africa. The U.K. Government expressed its deep sympathy with "all the people of South Africa."

Mr. Macmillan was also speaking on the day on which the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Iain Macleod, arrived in Salisbury, the capital of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, and was booed by Europeans at the airport, who suspected him of having come to "betray" the interests of Europeans to Africans within the Federal territories—Southern and Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

In these circumstances, the omens did not seem propitious for a happy and placid Commonwealth prime ministers' conference which was to include Dr. Verwoerd, of South Africa, and Sir Roy Welensky, of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

What kind of Commonwealth will persist? Can it include as equal partners free and independent states composed of Indians, Africans, Malaysians, and of mixed races controlled by minorities of European origin?

Poor Pretence

Can the prime ministers of South Africa and Ghana, for example, pretend for the duration of the Commonwealth conference in May, that the issue of apartheid need not interfere with their "cousinly" (in the Shakespearean sense) relations as prime ministers?

The situation in South Africa is, indeed, tragic. The Union of South Africa came into existence in a period of liberal optimism when the generosity of the British conquerors to their Boer adversaries was thought to be a secure foundation for the prosperity and tranquility of a new state.

Apartheid, as practised by the South African Government, is justified on Biblical ground. Hence the irony of a situation in which many devout Christians in the U.K. can scarcely bear to contemplate the segregation of one set of human beings in South Africa from another simply because their skins are of a different color.

On Friday (March 25), the London Times printed a letter from Father Trevor Huddleston, a member of the Anglo-Catholic Community of the Resurrection who for long worked in South Africa, in which he wrote that "it is almost unbearable to be both white and a Christian at this time."

Immediately below Father Huddleston's letter was one from a correspondent, Mr. N. G. Nightingale, who suggested that "those gifted and politically-minded clergy of the Clergy of England who have espoused the anti-apartheid cause with such zeal should learn the Afrikaans language, and then go out into the mission field in South Africa to convince the adherents of the Dutch Reformed Churches that the doctrine of apartheid is really unchristian. For the teachings of those churches go to the very roots of apartheid which is held, as a religious principle might be, by most Afrikaners."

Encouraging Fact

Politically, the existence of a free association of independent nations composed of races of different colors and traditions is regarded by many people in all parties in the U.K. as one of the few exciting and encouraging facts in a sombre world.

There are those who dismiss the Commonwealth conception as being no more substantial than a dream; but even if the Commonwealth broke up tomorrow, the making of the experiment would be regarded in history as an astonishing event.

Religion and politics, however, are not the only elements involved in the question "What kind of Commonwealth?" While these great upheavals in Africa monopolize public attention, there is much unpublicized anxiety in the U.K. about trade relations with Western Europe.

The prospect that the Common Market of six Western European countries, from which the U.K. is excluded, may promote its own trade fiercely at the expense of that of all the excluded European countries is viewed with deep concern in official quarters in London.

Seven of the excluded countries have formed their own Free Trade Association, but there are doubts as to whether the association has the potentiality for expansion of the Common Market.

Preference System

And why was the U.K. excluded from the Common Market when it was being formed, and in spite of months of negotiation? Largely because the U.K.'s commitments to Commonwealth countries through the preference system inaugurated at the Ottawa conference before the Second World War.

In a sense the Commonwealth economic dream is more powerful, among its most fervent advocates, than the Commonwealth political dream, though it is essentially an expression of a political rather than an economic hope.

Yet experts are aware that each member of the Commonwealth is subject to the strong pull of its own trade links with non-Commonwealth countries; and meanwhile the very valuable Western European Common Market may protect itself from the rest of Europe by ever-growing obstacles to outside trade. The prime ministers will have much to discuss when they meet here in May.

Prophet With Honor

LAST Tuesday morning His Excellency the Governor-General presented the Diploma of Honor of the Canadian Conference of Arts (which replaces the former Canadian Arts Council, about which I hope to write at length later) to the Hon. Brooke Claxton. Former recipient of the award have been Tom Ratterson of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival, Walter Herbert of the Canada Foundation and Senator Cameron of the Banff School of Art.

In the citation accompanying the award His Excellency remarked on Mr. Claxton's very successful administration of the Canada Council. Well, here is a case of a prophet with honor in his own country, and if I may mangle the Oxford Book of Quotations, he has achieved this honor in spite of hiding his own light under a bushel and in spite of refusing to publicize the work of the Canada Council as such. However, the truth will out and this has been a happy occasion for assessing the three years of work of the council. The verdict? Unqualified success, due in no small measure to Claxton's leadership.

Jarvis

I suspect that few Canadians realize what a unique and remarkable institution we have in the Canada Council, a group of 21 disinterested citizens who have at their disposal $50,000,000 to give in the form of outright grants to Canadian universities (and most of which has already been given away) and another $50,000,000, which is invested in safe securities, the income from which—running at something like $250,000 per annum—is being spent on the encouragement of the arts, the humanities and the social sciences. So far the council has given away upwards of $7,000,000 to nearly 2,000 individuals or organizations. One would have expected that in the contentious field of the arts—think what happens with the National Gallery or the CBC—there would have been far more public comment, criticism or complaint about the council. That there has not been is, I think, a tribute to the wisdom of the council's policies.

To be sure, there have been a few critics who have asked why the arts need subsidy at all, but they have been far outnumbered by the many Canadians who are proud of the Stratford story or who have seen ballet or heard concerts in areas of Canada where "live" performers had never gone before. Also, the choice of individual artists and scholars to whom awards have been given has been such as to command respect even from those artists and individuals who have been denied awards. But, perhaps the shrewdest thing Claxton has done is to get on with the job and not worry about whether the council itself gets a good press, a bad press or any press at all. Actions speak louder than words and the council's actions have gained it a respect among those who know about and are interested in its activities far beyond what any self-conscious "public relations" policy could have achieved.

The reason for a council's conspicuous if quiet success is, I think, because of its simple structure: it is, in effect, a jury and not a committee of experts or an assembly of delegates from the professional fields. The 21 members—and, for that matter, so does the chairman—act as plain citizens called upon to sit in judgment on the pleas put forward by the professional artists and organizations. The council takes pains to seek the advice of specialists and experts in every field and they do this, under the wise supervision of Walter Herbert, very conscientiously indeed. But the decisions as to allocation of funds among the various competing arts, and among the various competing interests in each artistic field (how, for example do you decide which of the many orchestras in Canada most deserve help?) are made by the council members—acting as a disinterested jury, weighing the evidence as presented by the council's very able full-time professional staff, in particular, Albert Trueman, director; Eugene Bussiere, his associate director; and Peter Dwyer, arts adviser. It is a setup which is just about as objective as one could devise and, as a body responsible for spending public funds, it is the envy and admiration of many other countries.

Few countries provide public funds for the arts and humanities on such a scale as Canada and those that do—apart from Iron Curtain countries—have seldom met with such public acceptance as the Canada Council. Some countries have established ministries of fine arts, subject to direct political pressures and usually, therefore, they are given to playing safe with a resulting downward spiral of standards. Other countries have left the job to a variety of professional organizations, each acting as a pressure group for its own specialized interests. In the United States especially this has resulted in a vacillating course of action on the part of the government which produces some very surprising anomalies indeed. My favorite is the case of the senator who consistently denounced "modern" (i.e. abstract) art as un-American and Communist and then found himself attacking the state department for sending this very art to the American exhibition in Moscow.

Because the Canada Council, its chairman and its staff have been so modest it has sometimes been said that they too have been playing safe. I know this not to be true, especially with regard to young painters and sculptors. In this field they have taken many gambles and these, to judge from recent exhibitions and competitions I have been associated with have begun to pay off. (Copyright: Canada Wide.)

HOME GARDEN

Sitting Down on the Job

Some of the small jobs around a garden are ideal for a warm, sunny spring day, when ambition outstrips energy.

One little job for which one can take a low stool is the pruning of the dwarf rhododendrons in the rock garden and borders. Many of these dwarf rhododendrons have already finished flowering, and the plants taking pruning should be done immediately.

Rare Cult Vessels Discovered in Israel

JERUSALEM (AP)—A complete set of cult-vessels used by Roman legions in the second century A.D. has been discovered in Israel by Yigael Yadin, archaeologist at the Hebrew University.

Yadin also found a four-square-inch fragment of parchment scroll from the Book of Psalms containing a passage from the Bible, chapter XV of the King James version. Seven incomplete lines deciphered were in the same Hebrew script as used in the Dead Sea scrolls, beginning "he that walketh uprightly."

When the petals have fallen, the tiny seed pods are clearly visible, and these can be readily removed with the thumb nail. Only the stem supporting the seed pod should be cut through with the nail. At the base of the stem which has been severed can already be seen the bright green new growths which will produce the flowers next year. The importance of removing the seed pods now lies in the fact that the plant will develop seed if the pods remain. The young growths would, in many instances, fail to grow, and the general appearance of the shrub would be poor. Flowers would be fewer, and the plant would be considered as having failed in its purpose of providing beauty.

After the pruning is completed, apply a two-inch mulch of moist peat moss over the root area, and keep this moist during the summer months. Overhead spraying with water on dull days is appreciated, and will assist in improving the general well-being of the rhododendrons.

Hungary Will Haunt Summit Warns Munro

GENEVA (UPI)—The Big Four summit meeting can hardly bring about any international relaxation if it merely sweeps the Hungarian question "under the carpet," the UN special representative on Hungary said today.

Sir Leslie Munro, of New Zealand, told a press conference that both the Hungarian and Soviet governments continued to ignore his requests to be allowed to personally investigate the situation inside Hungary.

"If at the summit," Munro warned, "there is to be a substantial lessening of tension by a spirit of compromise and accommodation among the great powers, this most desirable result cannot be fully achieved if problems such as that of Hungary are left unresolved."

"The world cannot in justice and wisdom sweep under the carpet vital matters such as General Assembly resolutions to the effect that the Hungarian people have the right to choose a government responsive to their national aspirations, and dedicated to its independence and well being."

HOUSE NOT DECEIVED SAYS ANGRY CHURCHILL

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Churchill angrily denied Thursday that he had misled the Commons in his speech on trade March 21 and 22.

He raised the subject in the Commons as a matter of personal privilege and said the Winnipeg Free Press in an April 4 editorial had accused him of distorting figures and known official facts.

Mr. Churchill said the editorial in this connection was "false." The figures he had used were derived from official bureau of statistics publications. He had not misled the Commons deliberately or otherwise.

4-Year Test Course In Second Language

MONTREAL (UPI)—A four-year test course designed to teach Canadian children an easier way of learning a second language will get under way in September, 1961, it was announced today.

Some 1,500 French-speaking pupils in Quebec schools will be tested under a method which employs the principles of a person learning his mother tongue in childhood.

It applies the principles for the teaching of languages to young children long advocated by a world-famous neurologist, Dr. Wilder Penfield, of Montreal.

Instruction will be given in Grades 3, 5, and seven at 40 schools.

"All those who take an interest in teaching of English or French as a second language in Canada are unanimously of the opinion that the results obtained under present methods are not proportionate to the efforts put into them," said Dr. Roland Vinette.

Dr. Vinette said that the theory being tested can be applied equally to English-speaking pupils learning French or any other language.

Understanding a spoken language ought to be the first aim of every teacher, Dr. Vinette said. "It is the easiest to attain and 'the only one really necessary,' he added.

INCOME TAX TIPS

(Eighth article of a series)

By GORDON A. GREEN

As mentioned in an earlier article, personal exemptions for dependents are the same as last year.

You may claim $250 for each child under the age of 16 who is qualified for family allowances, and who has not earned more than $950 during the year.

Under provisions of the Family Allowance Act, a child, unless born in Canada, must be in the country for more than a year before he or she can qualify for family allowance.

This means that the immigrant child is a $500 exemption on his parents' 1959 tax form unless the parents are in receipt of family assistance from the Department of Citizenship and Immigration.

You may claim $500 on your income tax return for wholly dependent children, not qualified for family allowance, those between the ages of 16 and 21, those over 21 if in full-time attendance at a school or university, and all children over 21 years of age who are physically or mentally infirm.

If any of the above have earned more than $950 in 1959 you lose this $500 exemption from your taxable income.

There is another class of $500 dependents which includes wholly dependent parents, grandparents, brothers, sisters, and including your in-laws. You must have spent $500 or more on their support to qualify for this claim, otherwise you will be allowed only the amount you've actually spent.

As in the case of children, these other dependents cannot earn more than $950 in 1959. This class of dependent is sometimes forgotten by the taxpayer.

If you are supporting or helping to support a relation but are in doubt as to whether you may claim an exemption for them, ask the officials in the Belmont Building, or your professional accountant.

U.K. BLOCKS CUBA FLIGHTS

MIAMI (UPI)—A British Army platoon has moved onto a small and desolate Bahamas island to halt use of it by Cubans opposed to the Fidel Castro regime, the Miami Herald reported Friday night. The Herald said the troops are intended to stop use of the island as a way station for refugees fleeing from Cuba to Florida and as an air base for fire bomb raids over Cuba.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A missioner in Hong Kong notified him the Communist government has refused visas. No reason was given in the notification.

The 54 representatives of B.C. industry are members of the Vancouver board of trade's annual off-shore trade and goodwill mission that will visit Japan, Formosa and Hong Kong.

E. W. Fisher, mission chairman, said it was hoped that the group could also attend the Chinese spring commodities fair in Canton. But the Canadian trade com-

Board members say the government is probably angry because the group planned to visit nationalist Formosa before the Chinese mainland.

Job 'Brokers' Facing Curbs

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks says new legislation may have to be enacted to control job "brokers" in British Columbia. Mr. Wicks made this comment Thursday after receiving complaints from the B.C. Federation of Labor concerning operations carried out by Manpower Services (Vancouver) Ltd.

The federation charges that the Manpower company is acting as an employment agency, yet is incorporated under the Companies Act.

E. P. O'Neal, federation secretary, said Manpower Services contracted with other companies for men to do work. One Vancouver company which normally pays employees $1.80 an hour in a certain classification paid this amount to Manpower Services, but Manpower paid the men only $1.30, Mr. O'Neal said.

50-CENT PROFIT

"The gross profit of the company is thus 50 cents an hour per man."

He added that if the company came under the Employment Agencies Act it would not be allowed to charge a fee.

"In our opinion, the company is operating illegally and if not illegally before the law, then their methods are so devious and their action so unethical as to warrant immediate prohibitive legislation."

Mr. O'Neal said the official object of the company is "to conduct a general manpower reserve and business service for the use of individual offices, stores, commercial and industrial concerns of all kinds . . . particularly a service providing personnel and equipment for work gangs."

"DIM VIEW"

Mr. Wicks said afterwards: "This is the first I have heard of this practice and I take a dim view of it. I am not at all happy over the activities of this company."

He said if the situation could not be controlled any other way, "new legislation will have to be enacted to control it."

Runoff Check Shows Little Flood Danger

There is little likelihood of any flooding on the Fraser and other B.C. rivers this year.

This was indicated by a snow survey bulletin issued by the B.C. water rights branch today. The bulletin forecast that the Fraser runoff will be only 85 per cent of the average for the past nine years.

It forecast that the cumulative flow of the Fraser and its tributaries, as gauged at Hope, would be 42,000,000 acre feet between April and August.

Water content of snow in the main Fraser watershed at April 1 was only 59 per cent of the April 1 average, and snow cover is generally lighter than usual.

The report said Vancouver Island snow courses have only a short period of record and as yet are "not too reliable for comparative purposes."

Combined April 1 water contents at Forbidden Plateau, Upper Quinsam and Labour Day Lake provided an average water content which is 20 per cent less than the six-year average.

FREE LOVE ADVOCATE—Professor Leo F. Koch, 44, will be fired from his post in the University of Illinois, president David D. Henry announced today. STRACHAN BUSY CCF Brief For Peace Hydro Probe

VANCOUVER (CP)—CCF Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said today the CCF is preparing a brief to Public Utilities Commission hearings on the Peace River hydro-electric project despite the PUC chairman's statement that political parties won't be allowed to appear at the hearings.

"I expect to be there," Mr. Strachan said. "I am preparing a brief along the lines of CCF policy."

Dr. H. F. Angus, chairman of the PUC, said last week political parties have their forum in the legislature and should not appear at the hearings.

Not so, said Mr. Strachan. He said the Social Credit government blocked CCF attempts in the House to gain publication of an engineering report on the project by the Peace River Power Development Company.

Vancouver Listens

VANCOUVER (CP)—The city of Vancouver will hold a watching brief at the forthcoming Public Utilities Commission hearings into an application of the Peace River Power Development Company.

Johannah Felicity Touchet Clapton, whose father was killed in action in the Second World War, will receive $250,000 in cash and the income for life of the estate of socialite Mrs. Florence Dillon Wyckoff Whitney, widow of Arthur Whitney. Mrs. Whitney died in February.

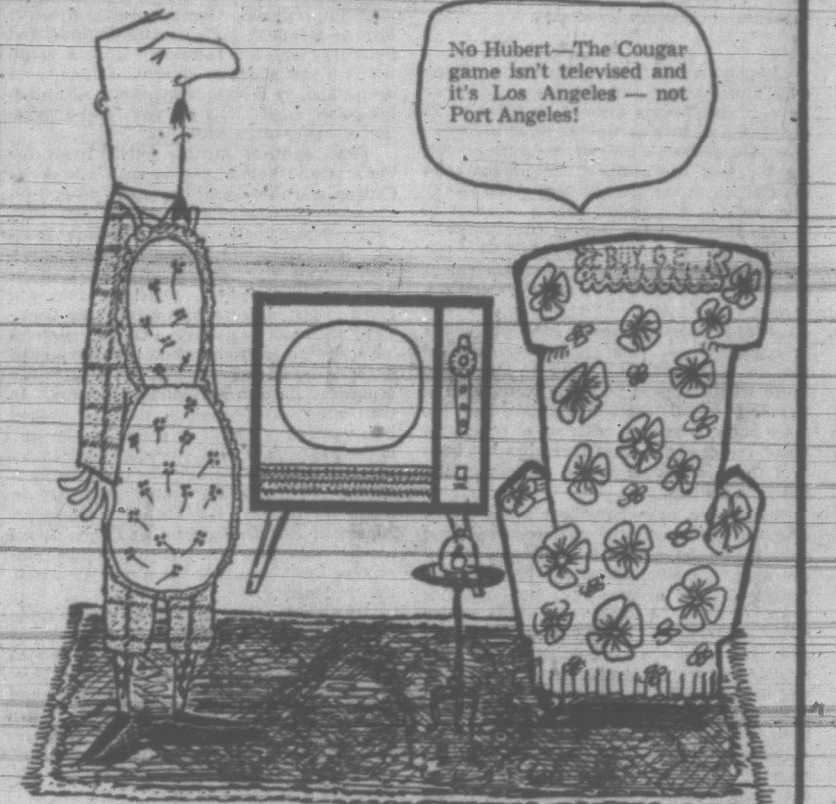

Trustees of the estate said its total value would not be determined for several months. It includes the 115-acre estate,

Pleasant Valley Mills, at near-mother, its 20-room house, valued on tax records at $105,400, lived with her foster and considerable jewelry.

'Ships, Sailors are Here To Stay'—Flag Officer

The Royal Canadian Navy's defence role is as important as ever in the missile age, Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner told Rotary Club of Victoria Thursday.

Admiral Rayner is both flag officer, Pacific Coast, and commander, maritime defence command, Pacific.

"In simplest terms, the navy's job is to stand on guard for Canada at sea," he said.

"In co-operation with anti-submarine aircraft from the RCAF maritime patrol squadrons, we have to be prepared to keep open the sea lanes to our harbors, and to defend our coast against the threat of missile-carrying submarines, perhaps the gravest threat to this continent.

"I believe this task will continue to be a requirement as long as there is any possibility of war," he continued.

"I also believe that surface ships will share in this task until satellite space stations are able to remove the cloak of evasion from the vastness of the oceans."

Admiral Rayner was convinced ships and sailors are here to stay, despite the tremendous advance of air transport and future possibility of space travel.

"Sea transport remains the cheapest and most economical means of moving bulk cargoes around the earth's surface, 70 per cent of which is covered by oceans."

5,500 HERE

The admiral pointed out the importance of the navy to Victoria's economic life. He said there are about 5,500 naval personnel serving in ship and shore establishments on the west coast, plus about 3,500 civilians who man the dockyard's repair facilities, the supply depots, ammunition depots and naval auxiliary craft.

"The total monthly payroll, both naval and civilian, amounts to approximately $2,500,000, most of which is spent locally," he said. "In recent years, the navy has been disbursing about $38,000,000 a year for food, goods, services and service pay in this area."

"It is estimated the personnel employed by the navy, together with their dependents, represent about 17.5 per cent of the total population of Greater Victoria, or 22,700 out of 130,000."

Joint Buying Plan May Get Second Look

Mayor Percy Scurrell Thursday said he would be willing to revive a proposal for joint buying by the municipalities.

The idea was discussed and shelved at one time by inter-municipal committee.

"I would be willing to bring it up again," said the mayor. "It's an excellent idea."

"I would like to see it brought into effect here by the four municipalities, the school board and perhaps the water board."

He was commenting on a Canadian Press report that said savings of up to 25 per cent were realized by joint buying of supplies in Vancouver.

The purchasing agents of the school, parks, sewer districts, water board, city and Pacific National Exhibition combine their orders to get discounts for large quantities.

No Dropping From African Trade Show

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Churchill said Thursday it is not possible for the government to take any action towards withdrawal of the Canadian exhibition from South Africa's 50th anniversary exhibition in Johannesburg.

Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, had asked in the Commons whether, "in view of the increasing discrimination against Negroes in South Africa, the government would consider withdrawing the Canadian exhibit."

Mr. Churchill said 80 Canadian manufacturers are exhibiting at the show, engineering equipment being the chief item. It was not possible for the government "as such" to take steps towards closing the exhibit.

The exhibition, celebrating creation of the Union of South Africa, May 31, 1910, opened Monday.

TEACHER BADLY HURT AT SCOTT AND RYAN

'Car Danced Along on Its Roof'

Condition of Mrs. Christine Hartley, 34, of 2700 Asquith, severely injured in a car crash at Scott and Ryan Thursday, was described today as "satellite" by Royal Jubilee Hospital officials.

She sustained a broken pelvis and collarbone and severe head cuts when the car she was driving east on Ryan flipped over after a collision with a car driven south on Scott by Richard F. Saunders, 1632 Kings Road.

Eyewitness George Murphy, 1737 Newton, said the car when he saw it was "already in the air" and "it danced along on its roof, like a bull-frog."

Victor Merriman, 1745 Newton, said the other car, a small foreign make, skidded a long way before "nosing under" the woman's car, flipping it over.

Skid marks of the smaller car carried on nearly 50 feet.

"Every day we hear squawking of brakes there. It's a bad corner. They need stop signs there, or something," he said.

Residents of the area had already petitioned city council for traffic controls.

The injured woman, a substitute teacher at Oaklands School, was taken to hospital by passerby Gerald Wray, 1339 Cordova Bay Road.

A two-car collision at the same intersection in January last year claimed the life of Edward D. Miles, 3366 Wordsworth, a Victoria Press printer.

Police Chief John Blackstock said he could see no cause for the rash of accidents and near-accidents at the intersection apart from "careless driving."

He said there are "far worse" city intersections "and yet the more dangerous corners have far less accidents."

A bystander at the accident scene, William Skibo, 2759 Belmont, was involved in a crash at the intersection himself two weeks ago.

"There should be stop signs at least, if not a traffic light," he said.

City traffic assistant Jack Reid said later that traffic controls will be installed, but not until a supporting bylaw is passed.

Without the bylaw the controls would be "meaningless" in the event of a court case, he said.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Thursday:

Donald Edward Tyrrell, 3961 Wilkinson, $10 for passing another vehicle on the right.

Paul Severny, 308 Zealous, and Alfred T. Neale, 2530 Windsor, $40 each for careless driving.

Aurelio Bove, Alpine Auto Court, $100 for driving while under suspension.

Defaulted Liabilities Jump

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

The total number of business insolvencies in Canada last year was 2,197, an increase of less than 1 per cent over the 1958 figure of 2,125.

Up until a few days ago the 1960 total appeared in danger of being swelled. But Finance Minister Fleming changed all that (or did he?) when he manfully outlined his budget calling for a $12,000,000 surplus.

Going farther into the Dominion Bureau of Statistics report on bankruptcies one discovers that the increased number of insolvencies is less significant than the increase in the amount of defaulted liabilities over 1958.

DBS reports defaulted liabilities totalled $76,800,188. This is 5.5 per cent higher than in 1958. In other words only a few more businesses went broke last year than in 1958 but they accomplished it in a much bigger way.

TRADE SECTOR HIT

As in past years, the trade sector accounted for the largest share of bankruptcies. Failures of trading establishments increased by 14.2 per cent to 907 from 882.

Insolvencies in manufacturing businesses increased from 356 to 370 due largely to an increase in failures producing electrical apparatus, clothing and wood products.

Estimated liabilities rose by 52.6 per cent in the finance and public utilities sector and 9.5 per cent in construction.

The latter figure is hardly surprising. The only amazing thing about it is that it is so low. A five-and-one-half months drought of government mortgage money for home-building has drastically reduced the activity and economy of housing contractors all across the country. High interest rates and a similar shortage of money didn't do industrial contractors any appreciable good last year either.

DBS records that total construction liabilities of 439 companies against 267 in 1958 amounted to $17,968,000 or $1,538,000 more than in 1958.

In the same mail DBS sent along a general bulletin on cheques cashed in clearing centres. Unintentionally, perhaps, it contains a paragraph which could be considered an antibiotic for the earlier, dismaying release on bankruptcies.

INCREASES NOTED

Titled "Economic Setting," the paragraph reads: "In 1959 all the economic indicators showed increases over 1958. Industrial production rose 7.7 per cent... manufacturing output advanced by 6.6 per cent... mining production increased by 10.4 per cent... composite payrolls rose by 6 per cent."

Makes nice reading, doesn't it. But don't try and sell it to a building contractor...

Ohio and Illinois are not the only places under flood these days. Desks of business editors all over North America are subject at this time of year to a tidal wave of annual reports. Once the favorite spring vogue of only a handful of major industrial concerns, the annual reports derby has been entered by companies small and smaller producing everything from bathtub plugs to arch supports.

Year in and year out, however, one of the most impressive reports is issued by Imperial Oil. Earnings net, gross, retained; dividend payments, assets, taxes, provisions for depreciation, plant and equipment, capital additions are set down so as to be digestible by the most novice reader of financial statements.

One of the most outstanding features of Imperial's report is contained on the inside back cover. The entire financial and operating picture is reviewed over the past 10 years, offering potential investors a wide insight into the company's position.

Over-all the position is healthy. But if you think Imperial's net earnings matched, percentage-wise, expenses in the "fabulous fifties" you're on the wrong beam.

Imperial's net earnings in 1950 amounted to $30,861,000. In 1959 the company earned $54,535,000, an increase of about 64 per cent. Expenses drained Imperial of $386,714,000 in 1950. But in 1959 they amounted to $771,036,000—an increase of about 98 per cent.

DISCOUNT U.S. SILVER

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian banks began discounting U.S. coinage Thursday in an effort to drive it back across the border.

The rate will be 2 per cent more than the prevailing daily rate for paper money and will apply on U.S. silver in amounts of a dollar or more.

One bank official estimated that the rate charged by merchants will be two cents for a 25-cent coin, four cents for a 50-cent coin and perhaps a cent on a dime and a nickel.

Meanwhile, in New York the premium on the Canadian dollar, in terms of U.S. funds, was at its lowest level in 10 months Thursday. Closing quotation was $1.03 31-32 U.S. currency.

Britain Offers Good Market

LONDON (CP)—A large and profitable market for Canadian products exists in Britain but many manufacturers and processors refuse to believe it, Canadian trade experts meeting here declared.

B. C. Butler, Canada's commercial minister in Britain, said he thinks it is mainly a psychological problem. Many Canadian producers didn't know much about this or other European countries, especially when it comes to markets.

Toughest 198 lbs. going

VOLKSWAGEN'S AIR-COOLED REAR ENGINE —MORE GO PER POUND

Every pound of the Volkswagen engine is built to work. Dead weight in an engine is the enemy of efficiency. That's why Volkswagen's engine is cast of aluminum and magnesium alloys (even lighter than aluminum).

Volkswagen reduces dead weight in still other ways. The engine is air-cooled—no bulky radiator. (No water to freeze in winter, or boil over in summer.) An oil-cooler, usually found only on high-priced sports cars, is standard on the Volkswagen. And placing the engine in the back gets rid of the conventional heavy driveshaft while giving direct drive to the wheels.

In mud, sand and snow, where other cars skid, you go. You get up to 40 miles per gallon. Volkswagen's engine can take top-speed driving all day long without strain. Definitely... the toughest 198 lbs. going!

No wonder, then, the principle of the Volkswagen's engine has now been adopted by leading European and American manufacturers.

Volkswagen's precision engineering gives you other benefits, too. Torsion bar suspension, independent on all four wheels, provides riding comfort even big cars can't match.

TRADITIONAL German craftsmanship goes into every detail of the Volkswagen. In fact, a gold watch is given for every Volkswagen driven 60,000 miles without a major repair... and more than 150,000 have been awarded! It's not surprising that Volkswagen is the largest selling small car in the world—BY FAR!

Canucks Snap Cougar Skein Trim Deficit to One Game

Belisle's Goal Beats Cats, Fourth Game Here Saturday

Canucks 3, Cougars 2

LOS ANGELES—Vancouver Canucks have battled back off the ropes and the Western Hockey League final today is shaping up as a bitter battle down to the wire.

After taking two beatings from the stalling Victoria Cougars in the opening games of the best-of-nine series, they bounced back vigorously here Thursday night to squeeze past the Cougars 3-2.

Heading back towards more familiar territory today, the Canucks will have a home-ice advantage in Saturday's fourth game of the final, but the Canucks, coming up with a booming finish to notch the winning goal with only 77 seconds remaining Thursday, indicated they may be tough to steer away from the President's Cup.

On the way to snapping the six-game playoff victory skein fashioned by the Cougars, the rejuvenated Canucks peppered a total of 40 shots at the Victoria goal while the Cats were able to manage only 17 at Vancouver's agile Hank Bassen. And when Victoria threatened to pull it out with a two-goal rally in the third period, Danny Belisle turned the Cougars back with the winning tally.

An estimated 5,500 fans saw the game in Los Angeles' new sports arena. The series was extended by two games to give Californians a chance to indicate their support for a proposed WHL franchise.

Thursday's turnout and the estimated 5,500 crowd in the 14,000-capacity arena for Wednesday's game was considered disappointing. The U.S. Olympic squad's two-game series against Czechoslovakia earlier in the season drew a total of 16,000 fans.

Marcel Busiest in Second Period

Gord Veprava was a key figure in Vancouver's win, scoring the second-period goal after assisting on Bruce Carmichael's first-period tally.

Defenceman Ron Matthews and Gordie Haworth scored seven minutes apart for Victoria.

Canucks had most of the game's big chances and but for Victoria netminder Marcel Pelletier would have made it a runaway in the middle period, when they had 20 shots on goal.

Temperatures ran high in the tense final period and Victoria defenceman Jack Bionda was tagged with two minors and a head cut in a tangle with Colin Kilburn and got another minor.

when he roughed it up with Orland Kurtenbach.

Kilburn drew a major for his part in the skirmish—which delayed the game 10 minutes. Kurtenbach drew a minor for his roughing.

Carmichael scored in the seventh minute after latching on to a bouncing puck in front of Victoria's net.

Veprava's second-period goal came after Pelletier couldn't smother Hucul's backhand. Veprava blasted in the rebound.

At 2:54 of the final period Matthews slapped a shot from just inside the centre line and Bassen appeared to misjudge it. The puck hopped over his stick and slipped between his pads.

Hal Says Cats Couldn't Get Going

With Kurtenbach and Bionda sitting out their minors, Haworth got the tying marker in the 16th minute when Canucks' defenceman Larry Cahan was unable to clear the puck. Haworth's shot bounced into the goal off Bassen's glove.

Centre Ray Cyr set up the winner, driving deep into Cougars' territory and laying on a perfect pass for right-winger Belisle. Pelletier was drawn in favor of a sixth attacker in the final minute but it was fruitless.

Although the Canucks were never sure of the win until the game ended, and seemed likely to lose out when the Victorians scored on two of their six third-period shots, Cougar coach Hal Laycoe admitted his club "did not deserve to come any closer."

"We just didn't have it tonight," Laycoe said after the game. "It may have been the heat, but we just couldn't get untracked.

"Vancouver appeared to have more zip than we did and we actually didn't deserve to come any closer. If Los Angeles does get a franchise in this league, I would advise against playing here two nights in a row because of the heat."

Both clubs left by plane this morning and the Cougars were scheduled to arrive home early this evening.

LABATTS WIN

Nanaimo Coach Collapses

NANAIMO (CP)—With their coach in critical condition after collapsing between the second and third periods and their captain sidelined with torn knee ligaments, Nanaimo Labatts struck with fury in the third period to whip Lacombe 5-2 in the deciding game of the western Canadian intermediate hockey semifinal.

Labatts took the best-of-five series 3-2 on the strength of three unanswered third-period tallies. They now meet Fort Frances in the best-of-seven western final starting next Tuesday. Site of the series has not been determined.

RESTING COMFORTABLY
The hard-hitting contest proved too much for Nanaimo coach Red Carr and he collapsed in his club's dressing room during the second intermission and was taken to hospital. It was later reported he was in critical condition, but today he was reported resting comfortably.

Also sent to the sidelines was Nanaimo captain Earl Robinson who suffered torn knee ligaments when checked heavily in the second period. The two setbacks appeared to rejuvenate the B-C champions and for the first time in the contest they took control of play, clinching victory on goals by Stan Berry, Bill Sutherland and Pete Eades.

Eades' goal, into an open net with two seconds left to play, was his second of the night. He scored early in the second period to give Labatts a 2-0 lead. Defenceman George Wilgress scored the only goal of the first.

For Rockets, Eddie Young and Don Rehili scored singletons in the second period. Rockets, who scored a 3-2 overtime victory Wednesday to force the deciding game, controlled the play through the first 40 minutes and appeared en route to victory.

Leafs Facing Usual Task Against Habs

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Canadiens' success pattern for Stanley Cup championships—get the jump on the other fellow—looked as good as ever today and Toronto Maple Leafs were left with the tough job of coming from behind in the best-of-seven final.

Just as they have barged in front in the opening game as a wedge to the title last four years, the powerful Canadiens brushed by the Leafs 4-2 Thursday night.

A three-goal outburst in the first period was enough. Leafs struck back for two in the second period but Henri "Pocket Rocket" Richard, who assisted on all three first-period goals, scored in the final period.

The teams met again here Saturday night.

Dickie Moore, Doug Harvey and Jean Beliveau supplied other Montreal goals. The threatened runaway came abruptly to a halt in the second when Leafs scored their two on only six shots on goal. Bobby Baun and veteran Bert Olmstead were the marksmen. As a Stanley Cup spectacle, the game lacked frills and thrills. It was hard, dogged hockey, with letdowns here and there. Most of the sustained speed was injected into the first period, although nine penalties tarnished much of the sparkle.

Referee Frank Udvari called 17 penalties, nine against Leafs, and at times was the object of howls from the 14,301 fans. The Leafs' bench rose in dissension, the players banging the boards when they figured a tripping penalty against Montreal should have been called in the third period.

Rocket Again Fails to Get Point

Goalie Johnny Bower of the Leafs came up with 38 saves, 18 of them in the second period when the Montreal shots were outstanding more because of quantity than quality. Jacques Plante of Canadiens made 27 saves.

Plante's most spectacular save came in the first period when he foiled Bob Pulford, racing in on a breakaway with Montreal leading 1-0.

Maurice "Rocket" Richard was held scoreless for the fifth time in the current post-season series. The 36-year-old rocket failed to get a goal in Montreal's four straight victories over Chicago Black Hawks in the semi-final.

This is believed a record for the veteran star. In addition, he now has gone nine games in playoffs without a goal, including the four games of last year's final in which he played against Leafs.

Toronto coach Punch Imlach wasn't downhearted. Canadiens got the breaks, he said, "and sooner or later we're going to get them."

Canadiens took the win in stride and coach Toe Blake fretted a bit over his team tiring. He felt the layoff of a week since the Chicago series may have been responsible. Blake's commendation went to Don Marshall and Claude Provost for their penalty killing.

Despite the 17 penalties, only one figured in a goal. Leafs were short-handed when Moore opened the scoring at 2:27 of the first period. He counted on a short rebound of Bernie Geoffrion's shot, the game in playoffs without a play starting with Henri goal, including the four games

Toe Was Happy When It Ended

MONTREAL (CP)—Coach Toe Blake was a mighty happy man Thursday night after Montreal Canadiens defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 in the first game of their Stanley Cup final.

Happy because Canadiens had won, and happy, too, because the game was over.

"It looked as if we were firing out there towards the end of the game," Blake said.

"They're going to be tough," he said, referring to the Leafs. "We didn't take it easy, did we?"

LEAFS MUTTERING

Across the forum ice, the Leafs walked into their dressing room muttering to themselves. Team captain George Armstrong was first in saying to himself: "That's just the warmer-upper."

No one appeared to be listening, as the Leafs kept their own feelings to themselves.

Coach Punch Imlach barred newspaper men from the dressing room for a minute or two to give the players a chance to relax.

He said he was definitely satisfied with the team's performance.

"They got the breaks," he said. "Sooner or later we're going to get them."

He said Montreal's fourth goal, a deflection by Leaf Tim Horton of Henri Richard's shot, "took the steam out of us when it appeared we might be coming back."

Goalie Johnny Bower was asked if Horton had anything to say after the goal.

"He swore," was Bower's comment.

Arnold Beats Jinx Hole; Leads Masters by Two

ARNOLD PALMER ... five under par

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Arnold Palmer conquered his jinx hole, so he figured today that he was well on the road to his second Masters golf championship.

He held a two-stroke lead over the field going into the second round and it looked like there would be no stopping him—especially if he can keep out of "Palmer's Pond."

Palmer did keep out of it Thursday to shoot a brilliant five under par 67—two strokes better than his nearest first-round pursuers—the veteran Claude Harmon, former PGA champion Dow Finsterwald, Jay Hebert and Fred Hawkins.

And while the par-three, 155-yard water hole turned out to be a major factor in Palmer's round, it turned out to be a nightmare for Ken Venturi.

The 29-year-old Californian had burned up the front nine in 31—five under par, equalling the course record—and looked like a good bet to overhaul Palmer until he came to that vital 12th.

SHADES OF 1956

Where Palmer got a good break on the hole, Venturi got a bad one, and it so unnerved him that he soared to a six-over-par 42 on the back nine to wind up with a total of 73.

That duplicated his performance of 1956, when as an amateur, it looked like he had the championship in the bag, but went to pieces on the back nine, wound up with that bugaboo 42 and lost out by one stroke to Jackie Burke.

Palmer, the 1958 winner, lost his chance to win last year when he put his tee shot in the water on that 12th hole and wound up with a double bogey. Thursday, his tee shot imbedded in the lip of a sand trap. The officials ruled he was entitled to a free lift. Twice he dropped the ball over his shoulder, and twice it went into the sand-trap. Because golfing rules stipulate you cannot drop a ball into a hazard, it finally was ruled that Palmer could drop it in the grass near the green. He did and got his par three.

LOTS OF DRAMA

Venturi put his six iron over the green. He had such a bad lie that he failed to chip his second shot on. He made it with his third, but then two putted from five feet. His game went to pieces after that.

There was a lot of drama besides that 12th hole in Thursday's first round. It attracted the largest first-day gallery in the history of U.S. golf tournaments—an estimated 17,000. The fans saw 11 players in the 84-man field break par over the 6,980-yard Augusta National course. That's the second best par-busting performance in the history of the Masters—exceeded only in 1956 when 13 players beat the card.

An amateur, Dr. Bud Taylor, the San Francisco dentist, Don January and Harry Wetman of England, one of the 10 foreign players in the field, were three strokes off the pace with 70's.

In the 71 bracket to complete the par-busting brigade were U.S. Open champion Billy Casper, British Amateur champion Deane Beman, and Gene Littler.

At even par 72 were Stan Leonard of Vancouver, Julius Buros, Walter Burkemo, Ted Kroll, Gary Player of South Africa, former U.S. Amateur champion Charley Coe, Billy Maxwell, Jackie Burke, Mike Souchak and Lew Worsham.

The two sentimental favorites, Sam Snead and Ben Hogan, each carried a 73, while another favorite of the fans, Cary Middlecoff, had a 75.

OLSON WINS

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Former middleweight champion Cal (Bobo) Olson, 175, stopped Roque Maraville, 170, Fresno, Calif. in seven rounds of the scheduled 10-round main event of a boxing show here Thursday night.

Tickets for the sixth game, at Memorial Arena Wednesday, go on sale at the box office Saturday at 10 a.m.

Some Say Sam Talked Too Much

AUGUST, Ga. (AP)—Sam Snead was chided and then forgiven for one of the season's poorest acting performances on television—the golf match he had to lose twice.

"We must make one thing clear," said Harold Sargent of Atlanta, president of the Professional Golfers' Association, who Thursday announced a mild rebuke for Snead. "Sam didn't throw the match. He was just trying to carry on the show."

"We know Sam is as honest as the day is long. He was trying to do something fair and sportsmanlike. Technically, he made a big mistake in judgment."

Sargent's statement came after Snead was called on the carpet by the PGA executive committee and asked to explain the circumstances surrounding his loss to Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., in NBC television's World Championship Golf series.

The match was played and filmed at Bermuda's Mid-Ocean club in December, with $8,000 at stake, and shown on home screens last Sunday.

Watchers throughout the country must have been amazed to see Snead, one of the all-time greats, four-putt the 16th hole, flub an easy wedge shot and then three-putt the 18th to lose, one down.

Snead said he felt compelled to waste those shots after discovering on the 12th hole that he had 15 clubs in his bags, violating the 14-club rule. This calls for immediate disqualification under the rules, which say a player loses every hole which he played with an illegal number of clubs.

"What could I do?" Sam asked. "I knew I was already beaten, 10 and 8, under the rules, but I didn't want to spoil these people's show, so I just kept going, trying to make it look good."

There was a wide range of reaction from the players themselves, most of whom did not want to be quoted. Doug Ford, former Masters and Open champion, said he was of just alibiing for his defeat. Some blamed him for talking too much about the incident. Others said he showed good sportsmanship.

Snead said he felt compelled to waste those shots after discovering on the 12th hole that he had 15 clubs in his bags, violating the 14-club rule. This calls for immediate disqualification under the rules, which say a player loses every hole which he played with an illegal number of clubs.

Injuries Hit JBAA In City Rugby Final

James Bay Athletic Association will be battling bad luck as well as Oak Bay Wanderers Saturday for the city rugby championship.

Kicking ace Gary Pynn, who has often provided the difference between wins and losses throughout the season, and first-string fullback George Wilson are both sidelined with shoulder separations.

JBAA will also go into the game with a six-point deficit in the two-game, total-point series for the Barnard Cup. Wanderers took a 9-3 decision in the opener two weeks ago.

Scheduled at Windsor Park, Saturday's match will get underway at 2:30 p.m.

Winner of the series will play a Vancouver representative, probably University of B.C., for the provincial rugby crown.

Two junior league games are scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Saturday. Air Cadets meet PPCL cadets at Carnarvon Park and Oak Bay Wanderers take on Canadian Scottish at Windsor Park.

In an exhibition game Vancouver Richmond plays Oak Bay Reds at 1 p.m. at Windsor Park.

GAINS EMPRESS FINAL

Edie is Honest—Says Luck Helped

A 20-handicapper from Seattle's Broadmoor Golf Club and a Californian who plays to a 29 handicap met at Uplands this morning to decide the women's championship in the 30th annual Empress golf tournament.

And Mrs. Edie Trulson, the visitor from Seattle, wished to be bluntly honest about today's 18-hole final.

"When you get down to these handicaps, it's luck more than good golf that decides it," she said.

She pointed to her own semifinal victory over Mrs. Earl Adell, also of Seattle, as an example.

"I outlucked her. I chipped in an eight-iron shot on the ninth for a two."

That was, she feels, the turning point that sent her into today's final and struck her first major tournament victory. Down two holes at one stage early in the match with Mrs. Adell, she was one up at the turn because of her fine chip shot.

She never looked back, beating her opponent on the 16th. Mrs. Trulson is playing in the Empress tournament for the first time.

Mrs. Gibb moved into the final Friday by turning back another Seattle challenger, Mrs. G. H. Waterman, 1-up. At Oak Bay, the fall of defending champion Ernie Ketcham provided the big surprise of the men's quarterfinals. Ketcham, four up playing the 11th, lost five straight holes to Victoria's Don-Poebrooke. The local bank inspector sidelined the defending champ. 2 up, to move into today's semifinals against John Poyen of Calgary.

Poyen reached the semifinals by downing W. McGlashan of Bellevue four and three. Medalist Tom Williams from Astoria, Oregon, defeated Calgary's Joe Galloway three and two and Mike Pyke of Calgary downed Pross Clark of Portland one up in other quarter-final matches.

'ASTREX CLUB' WOULD FORECAST WEATHER

Students to Build Observatory

(From Duncan Bureau) NORTH COWICHAN—Eight Cowichan district high school boys are planning to build an observatory to house a six-inch reflecting telescope on top of Richard's Mountain.

Council this week approved in principle the land lease of the two-top mountain peaks of the Comlaken district.

"I'm in favor for two reasons," said Coun. A. Staples.

"It will give the boys something to do and it will keep the road open for firefighting."

V. L. Stanley-Jones, Richard's Trail, is supervising and leading the group, who call themselves the "Astrex Club."

Dennis Garlick, 18, Richard's Trail, recording secretary, is interested in weather and hopes to build an amateur weather station on the mountain.

The boys are all science-minded and plan to study plants and rocks, and make their own equipment. They will clear old logging and mining trails.

"Ultimately we hope to build a 24-inch telescope in the observatory," Mr. Stanley-Jones said.

HAPPY VALLEY POLIO VICTIM 'JUST FAIR' IN RESPIRATOR

Tony Gardner, 23, British Columbia's 32nd victim of polio to date this year, was reported by Royal Jubilee Hospital authorities today as being in "just fair" condition.

He was taken to the hospital Wednesday after having suffered pneumonia at his home, 3371 Happy Valley Road, for the previous 10 days.

Although he had had all three anti-polio injections last year, his illness was diagnosed as polio arising from pneumonia. He was put in a respirator immediately.

Cabinet Invited To Salt Spring

GANGES—Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce has invited the provincial cabinet to hold a meeting on Salt Spring Island next month.

Date will be fixed and arrangements made when Premier Bennett signifies whether it will be possible.

Two resignations were accepted at the meeting this week.

Henry McGill, president, will leave here in June to take a position with a Federal Way shopping centre near Seattle, and the vice-president, John Frederick, has been transferred by his bank to Kelowna and will leave at the end of this month.

Mr. McGill appointed Stan Wagg, J. E. Fletcher and Austin Wilson as a nominating committee to fill the two vacancies.

ROAD REPAIRS

It was reported that a government bulldozer is working on Bridgeman Road, Beaver Point, and that it is hoped to have it make repairs to Mount Maxwell Park Road, which was washed out in several places by floods earlier this year and now is impassable.

'Bear and Bees' Film at Duncan

A motion picture of a bear breaking into a beehive, despite the protests of at least half a million bees, will be shown April 14 at 8 p.m. in the Moose Home, Lakes Road, at the regular meeting of Cowichan division, B.C. Honey Producers' Association.

The film cost $5,000 to produce, according to A. E. Cole, Cobble Hill, vice-president, and will be shown by Chester Baron, Victoria.

Provincial apiarist John Corner of Vernon will speak, and J. Oldershaw, Vancouver apiary inspector, is expected to attend.

ROADBLOCK — Armored trucks guard the road as a mob of 5,000 Africans start a march to Durban, South Africa, from Cato Manor. Africans in front of crowd have linked their hands together to try and stop the march.

On Tuesday police clubbed, whipped and shot their way through the native township of Lyanga outside Capetown in an effort to drive stay-at-home Negroes back to their jobs.

He's a Free Man Legally This Time

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — John Allan Morrison, caught up by the law after 14 years of building a new life, walked out of Cape Breton County jail Thursday night a free man.

The 33-year-old Hamilton, Ont., steelworker, jailed last week for a crime committed in 1946, was freed by the national parole board. Just as he was released RCMP officers appeared to serve a warrant under the Nova Scotia Liquor Act. The warrant would have put him back in jail.

But the attorney-general's department issued orders to withdraw the warrant.

Morrison, a muscled bachelor originally from nearby Sydney, was convicted of operating an illegal liquor still. He was charged jointly under the Federal Excise Act and Nova Scotia Liquor Act. He was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $500.

The sentence was never served. Morrison was released while an appeal was filed and he said he was never told the outcome of the appeal—dismissed May 14, 1946.

National parole board chairman George Street said in Ottawa that in view of Morrison's good record he should not be kept in jail.

CONVICTED Thursday of federal income tax fraud arising from a $1,000,000-a-year labor shake-down racket, Johnny Dio will be sentenced April 26. Dio faces a possible 20 years in prison and $40,000 in fines.

Import Curb on Salmon Proposed in U.S. Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Japanese fishing industry men urged prompt action Thursday on a bill to prevent importation of salmon taken on the high seas with nets and gear that American fishermen are forbidden to use.

Rep. Thomas M. Pelly, who introduced the bill, and Rep. Thor C. Tollefson, both Republicans, said the situation is extremely serious. The two said "there is no indication whatsoever that the Japanese fishing industry in its operations on the high seas" will co-operate in conservation of salmon.

ONE-MAN, ONE-VOTE FOR NEGROES

Full Rights—Or Revolt

NKRUMAH

Africa Needs One Leader

LONDON (UPI)—Dr. Hastings Banda, African independence leader recently freed from a British jail, announced his support Thursday night for speedy establishment of a United States of Africa.

Banda, who spoke over television to an estimated (by the network) 8,000,000 British viewers, spiked speculation of any competition developing between himself and other nationalist spokesmen like Premier Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana.

"I don't mind who leads, as long as he leads Africa," said Banda, who is head of the self-government campaign in Nyasaland.

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah warned Thursday that as long as African Negroes are denied the privilege of "one-man, one-vote," then insecurity, resentment and revolt will prevail.

In one of the major speeches of his career, Nkrumah castigated recent events in South Africa as "a brutal massacre" and the French Sahara nuclear tests as "an act of stubborn and inhuman defiance."

His attack came before 300 delegates and observers for governments and political parties from all parts of Africa attending a three-day "positive action" conference for peace and security in Africa.

"So long as any group on this continent denies the principle of one-man, one-vote and uses its power to maintain its privilege, there will be insecurity for the oppressors and constant resentment and revolt on the part of the oppressed," he declared.

The beginning of 1960, he said, saw "ruthless outrages on the peace-loving people of our continent."

There were "two threatening swords of Damocles hanging over our continent and we must remove them"—South Africa's racial segregation policy and French atomic tests.

Nkrumah said African union is not a dream, and added that "I for one am prepared to serve under any African leader who is able to offer the proper guidance in this great issue."

He called for an end to the war in Algeria, adding: "Africa for the Africans" did not mean that other races were excluded from the continent but that Africans should and must govern themselves.

Quebec Aiding Outside Areas

OTTAWA (CP)—Quebec could become the centre of a new constitutional controversy, this one concerning financial aid it sometimes renders to institutions of higher learning in other provinces.

PRECEDENT was set Thursday when Premier Barrette became the first head of a Quebec government to enter the Ontario legislature since Confederation. The House roared with applause as Mr. Barrette entered for the high light of his Ontario goodwill tour.

HORMONE CURES 'Goldmine' In Peat Bog, Says Winch

OTTAWA (CP)—Is Canada passing up a multi-million-dollar industry in therapeutic qualities of its hot springs and hormone peats?

Harold Winch, CCF member of Parliament for Vancouver East, suggested today to Health Minister Monteleith that it is.

"We can be the health-giving nation of the world if we take advantage of them," he said at a meeting of the Commons estimates committee, currently studying health department spending.

Mr. Winch recalled that Mr. Monteleith's predecessor, Liberal Paul Martin, once said the government intended to approach the Best Institute of Toronto to undertake research into the possibility of exploiting the hot springs and peat bogs found mostly in the mountain ranges of Western Canada.

He asked whether anything had been done about it.

Dr. G. D. W. Cameron, deputy health minister, replied for Mr. Monteleith that nothing had been done.

NEGLECTED RESOURCES

"We have some of the finest natural resources in the world and we're not using them," said Mr. Winch.

Health authorities disagree on the merits of hot spring and peat treatments. Some say they induce no organic changes that can't be obtained in a plain hot bath.

They say the organic improvements usually attributed to hot springs derive instead from the rest and special attention usually associated with the springs at health resorts and the like.

Mr. Winch said in an interview after the meeting that he once was cured in six days of torn ligaments suffered in an automobile accident when he spent three hours each day packed in hormone peat.

He said that European countries are making hundreds of millions of dollars with their hot springs. Yet Canada's springs and peats were "100 per cent better" than Europe's.

There are several well-known hot spring resorts in Alberta and British Columbia.

LAHORE, Pakistan (Reuters)—President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan said Thursday the whole of Africa might turn Communist because of frustrations caused by recent occurrences in South Africa and Algeria.

IRISH 'DAY' TO GO WET

DUBLIN (Reuters)—The Daily Thursday passed legislation which will enable taverns and bars to open on St. Patrick's Day. The sale of alcoholic liquor on the national festival March 17 had been banned since 1927 to prevent rowdiness.

Blanket Blame for Rear-Car Drivers Dropped by Alberta

EDMONTON (CP)—The Alberta Legislature Thursday dropped a section of the new Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act that would have automatically blamed the rear driver for a tail-end collision.

The section was inserted by Highways Minister Gordon Taylor in an effort to reduce the number of tail-end collisions.

Roy Ellis (SC-Grouard), a former member of the RCMP, said the section on tail-end collisions would take away discretionary powers from the police and from the courts.

He added that the provision was such that the driver at the rear would be charged even if the front driver backed into the rear car.

STRANGLING IN BED

AMSTERDAM (Reuters)—A 17-year-old girl was found strangled Thursday in her bed at the home of a chief inspector of the Amsterdam police where she was a boarder.

Neither the police inspector, a widower, nor his daughter heard any noise during the night, police said.

DOCTOR SAYS UNDER OATH

Cancer Patients All Big Smokers

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A Cancer specialist testified at a $1,250,000 damage suit against a leading cigaret firm today that virtually every patient he treated for cell-type cancer had a history of heavy smoking.

Dr. David Kremer, who seven years ago treated the plaintiff in the case, Otto Pritchard, said he attended between 15 and 20 patients who had contracted what he termed epidermoid cancer. He added that his patients admitted smoking a pack or more of cigarets a day.

Kremer's precedent-setting testimony under oath came as attorneys for Pritchard, a 61-year-old cabinet maker, attempted to prove the plaintiff contracted cancer after smoking one of the (Liggett and Myers) Tobacco Company's brands (Chesterfield) for more than 25 years.

Attorney James P. McArdle, representing the plaintiff, planned to call at least two other physicians to testify as to the possible link between heavy smoking and lung cancer.

Dr. Kremer, whose home town is Stamford, Conn., said he had treated Pritchard while the cancer victim was a patient at Presbyterian Hospital here in 1953. That was the year Pritchard underwent surgery for removal of two lobes of a cancerous lung.

McArdle, who believed this marked the first time medical men testified under oath on the cancer-cigarette issue, said similar testimony had been offered before congressional committees but the witnesses were not under oath.

MONTE ROBERTS

My old buddy-buddy Don Tyerman was in town this week, and this gives me an excuse to address a message to the younger generation.

Because my old buddy-buddy Don Tyerman sets a fine example for the younger generation to follow.

Some years back (never mind how many) my old buddy-buddy was a devotee of the game of Canadian football.

He was attached to the Vancouver Athletic Club team and was, indeed, one of its most dedicated members.

While teammates relaxed during the off-season, Tyerman went through a self-imposed training routine.

Even in the heat of the summer, he conscripted friends and neighbors to take the football around. He did his daily setting up exercises, ran a prescribed distance each day.

All year round he watched his diet and his weight. But as the season approached, his regimen intensified.

In the weeks before the first game, his waking moments were filled with nothing but football.

He memorized plays and signals. He practiced diligently, not only in his own position, but the other positions so he could take over in case of emergency.

Tyerman sometimes sneaked into the practices of opposing teams to see what competition could be expected.

He even made the supreme sacrifice of eating not one, but two, blood-red steaks for lunch, the better to get his strength up.

Naturally, he tasted not of the alcoholic beverage, nor did a cigaret, cigar, or pipe lure him from his spartan course.

Now, in case the younger generation is wondering why I am relating all this in such great detail, it is because they should be inspired by the way old-buddy-buddy Tyerman's diligence paid off.

Came the first day of the season. The VAC's were playing against their bitterest rivals, the Meralomas.

Tyerman was playing right end, trotting back and forth nervously, awaiting the kick-off.

Came the kick-off—the very first play of the very first game of the season.

And do you know what Tyerman did on that play?

He fell down and broke his leg and was out for the rest of the season, that's what he did.

Truly, an inspiration to the younger generation.

WEEKEND WEATHER 'BUMPY'—ONLY A LITTLE SUN DUE

A quillish weekend, with a few showers and some rare sunny periods, are in view for Victoria following a balmy Thursday, during which an all-time temperature record was equaled.

Official thermometer climbed to 63 degrees to match the long-standing record for April 7. Minimum tonight will be 45 degrees, and the maximum Saturday will be 55 degrees.

Visiting weatherman Jack Kernode forecast clouds and a few showers for tonight and Saturday, with light winds. His prediction for Sunday is for more cloud, but with a few sunny periods.

Funeral Tuesday For Stan Taylor

One of British Columbia's best-known civil servants died Thursday in a Calgary hotel.

Walter Stanley Taylor, registrar of companies and supervisor of co-operatives, passed away while returning from a convention of the Canadian Co-operative Association in Banff.

He was 63.

Mr. Taylor had suffered from a heart condition for the last five years.

Mr. Taylor had a distinguished career in business and government service.

PILOT

Born in Vancouver in 1896, he received primary and secondary education there and later attended McGill University.

At the outbreak of the First World War he joined the Royal Flying Corps, was commissioned as pilot and served for four years.

Called to the bar July 3, 1922, he practised law at Prince Rupert with the firm of William and Manson, the latter now a judge of the B.C. Supreme Court.

Subsequently he returned to Vancouver where he continued his practice with Williams and Manson, later going into partnership with Vancouver barrister David Sigler.

OVERSEAS

He joined the Royal Canadian Air Force shortly after the start of the Second World War, rising to the rank of squadron leader. His administrative duties led him overseas.

He joined the B.C. government as registrar of companies in 1945. Until a few years ago he was also superintendent of insurance and real estate in B.C.

Attorney General Robert Bonner, under whose aegis the companies department comes, said today: "I feel a deep sense of personal loss at the death of Stanley Taylor. I knew him prior to coming to government and enjoyed the finest relationships with him over the past eight years. Mr. Taylor was extremely well known to the legal profession. Under his direction the companies branch became synonymous with fast and courteous service to the profession and the public. He will be sorely missed in the department and by all his friends."

Mr. Taylor is survived by the widow, Marjorie Eileen; a daughter, Mrs. John Coppinger; one grandson, Allan Bruce; a sister, Mrs. F. R. Anderson, Vancouver; three brothers, Sydney and George of Vancouver; William, Salt Lake City.

Rev. Douglas Kendall will conduct funeral services at 2 p.m. Tuesday from McCall's, Interment will be at Royal Oak Burial Park.

TASTE OF BLOOD MAY SPARK FURTHER VIOLENCE, SAYS CHIEF

Will Revenge-Bent Dogs Attack Children?

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Oak Bay police today admitted that four Alsations which killed a small dog on Deal Street Wednesday could be a "potential" danger to children.

The Alsations owned by Mrs. A. M. Macknight, 1008 Deal, escaped from their yard and killed a 10-pound dachshund belonging to Peter Henderson, a neighbor on the same street.

Mr. Henderson now fears that if the dogs escape again they may attack his four children as they always played with the dachshund, named "Sniffer".

He has complained to the police.

Chief Robert Smith said the case will be brought up at the next meeting of the police commission Wednesday.

POTENTIAL DANGER

"There is always a possibility that a dog which has tasted blood may attack again," said the chief. "There is a potential danger that the Alsations could associate the children with the dachshund."

Police said the Alsations have never been allowed to wander about unattended, but somehow escaped from their yard Wednesday.

The killing took place in Mr. Henderson's front yard.

Neighbors said the killing was a "pure case" of revenge on the part of the Alsations.

Apparently "Sniffer" had a habit of barking and growling at the Alsations who were fenced in and could not get out of their yard.

But on Wednesday morning,

the Alsations did get out and in a matter of minutes killed "Sniffer."

Mrs. Macknight said it was the first time her dogs had ever got out of the yard.

"I feel sorry for the people who lost their pet," she said. "But our dogs are not vicious. They are accustomed to children. One of the Alsations is a show dog."

FADEOUT FOR JACK-HAMMER SERENADE

'Hole-Dodging Days' Just About Finished

By JOHN MIKA

Victoria's multi-million-dollar downtown underground wiring project enters its last lap this summer.

Begun in 1956 by B.C. Electric, the 30-block grid of sub-surface wiring will be in complete operation about the middle of 1962 when the last overhead power pole comes down.

Between now and then, here's what happens:

By the end of this month all excavation work for ducts and transformer vaults will be completed downtown.

About mid-June a contract will be let for stringing wire through the ducts and installing transformers.

This fall, the final excavation work will start to provide an underground link between Horsey substation on Summit and the downtown area.

Next spring the wiring program probably will be completed and the progressive removal of power poles will start.

Poles will be removed and underground connections to the 400 buildings in the area will be switched on in a "phased" program until the job is finished in mid-1962.

The six-year project will give Victoria the first pole-less downtown area for any Canadian city of its size.

By the end of this year, BCE will have spent $2,700,000 on the project. The investment will provide improved power supply to the downtown area as well as beautify it.

Affected are 30 blocks bounded by Government, Blanshard, Herald and Belleville.

The excavation program was carried out during the winter months of 1956-57, 1957-58 and 1958-59 to avoid disrupting the tourist season.

It has provided jobs for about 100 men on the average during peak unemployment periods.

When the final phase begins, Victorians will hardly notice it after three years of picking their way through rubble-strewn streets being opened up by noisy air hammers and dynamite charges.

Some 55,800 cubic yards of material were excavated during those years and 20,000 yards of back fill dumped into the holes.

About 15,300 cubic yards of concrete and 207 tons of reinforcing steel were used to build the underground grid for 128 miles of four-inch ducts, 244 manholes and 38 transformer vaults.

In the final phase, the streets will be quiet and clean as reels of wire are unwound from trucks and threaded through the ducts.

Some 47,000 feet of main cables, 78,600 feet of secondary wires and 40,000 feet of connecting wires will be strung through the grid. Seventy transformers will be installed.

Block by block, the 200 poles and 254,000 feet of overhead wires will be removed.

ONE OF MANY WORKERS who help keep Butchart Gardens at their beautiful best is Miss Els Westra, who learned her love of flowers in Holland. Spring flowers are now at their peak; starting Saturday, the Gardens will be reopened to the public. During April, hours will be from 9 a.m. to 5.30 p.m. (Svendsen Photo.)

ONE OF CITY'S BEST-KNOWN SEAFARING MEN

Caddy's 'Co-Discoverer' Dies—He Defied Ridicule in '33

Frederick William Kemp, one of Victoria's best-known seafaring men and a "co-discoverer" of Caddy the Sea Serpent, died in the Veterans' Hospital Thursday, aged 78.

The story of Caddy goes back to Oct. 5, 1933, when The Times announced that a sea serpent had been seen off Cadboro Bay by Mr. Kemp, then with the Provincial Archives, and Major W. H. Langley, clerk of the B.C. Legislature.

Defying all ridicule, Mr. Kemp and Major Langley insisted they had seen a serpent in the bay, and within a few days other citizens of repute substantiated their story.

Caddy (properly styled Cadborosaurus) had been a local legend ever since with hundreds of residents and visitors claiming to have seen him.

But it was as an old seafarer, a maker of model ships and a good friend with an undying love of the sea that Mr. Kemp was best known to Victoria.

The descendant of an old naval family, he first went to sea at 13. He was two years under sail; served aboard a minesweeper in the North Sea; worked for the Anthony Drexel family on their private yacht, which went around the world; and for many years shuttled immigrants from Europe to the United States.

OVER STERN

"In the early days," he said, "we never saw butter, sugar or milk and we towed the beef over the stern three or four days before we could cook it."

Mr. Kemp first came to B.C. in 1910 when he was offered a job in the Queen Charlotte Islands. He went to work at a fishing station called Pacofi.

He liked the Queen Charlottes.

"One day," he said, "they will come into their own. Their potential wealth has only been scratched."

OVERSEAS

In 1914 he went overseas, and after war service returned to the Isle of Wight where he was born. There he met and married his wife.

Invalided out of the service, he returned to B.C. and travelled between Prince Rupert and the Queen Charlottes buying fish. His son Jack learned to talk the Haida Indian tongue and he became a firm friend of the late Chief Edgashaw of the Haidas.

Mr. Kemp came to live in Victoria in 1925 when he joined the staff of the Provincial Archives. He lost his wife nearly 10 years ago and went to live with his son Jack in a small house on Crescent Road, close by the sea.

OLD SALTS

Mr. Kemp was a prominent member of the Thermopylae Club, Victoria's group of old salts and ship-lovers and was associated with the Maritime Museum at Esquimalt. In recent years he lived at 1308 Dallas Road.

He leaves his son Jack, 1975 Lee Avenue, Victoria; four sisters and one brother in England.

Funeral services will be held at Hayward's Chapel next Tuesday at 11 a.m. followed by committal at Royal Oak Burial Park.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me where "The Fisherman" is published and by whom?—R. M. M.

A. No, it comes fourth. Latest figures show construction accounted for 18.4 of industrial accidents in Canada; manufacturing, 16 per cent; mining, 15.7 per cent, and logging, 15 per cent.

Cut Cooking to Minimum With Aluminum Foil Pans

By PENNY SAVER

A mother of a boat-owning family quickly becomes adept at whipping up meals aboard and in a hurry! One minute she'll be helping to paint trim, next she'll have a dish of tantalizing goodies ready on the galley table!

Bacon and eggs, chops and other meals take hardly any time at all when she uses one of the quick-fry aluminum foil pans I've seen today. Pans sell at five for $1.19 and can be disposed of after use or rinsed and used again. A good heat conductor, pan will cook four times faster than normal one and handle remains cool at all times. Whether you're faced with cooking meals aboard ship, at the beach, on the patio or if you're just "batching" this weekend these will be well worth the small expenditure.

For variety in Lenten meals try some of the plaice that's now selling in a downtown store. Fish, a great favorite in England, are caught in very deep waters and only come on the market about twice a year. This is a sweet white fish and is priced at 60 cents a pound.

Special family treat could be some of the spring chickens that sell for $1 or $1.15 each, depending on size. Birds are only 10 weeks old and cannot fail to be tender whatever way they're cooked.

Fresh local rhubarb will add interest to dessert dishes. Rhubarb sells at 25 cents a pound. Asparagus is now down to two pounds for 35 cents and fresh spinach sells at two bunches for 35 cents.

Honey dew are available at 49 cents each. Children will love it if you bring home one of the coconuts priced at 29 cents. Large cauliflower are selling for 35 cents and new potatoes look good at two pounds for 29 cents.

Corned beef, selling at 60 cents a pound, will make a good meal while if time is at a premium you can't do better than get a ready-to-eat ham, selling at 55 cents a pound. Prices of beef are coming down slightly. If cooked slowly, chuck roast, 50 cents a pound, or a cross rib roast, at 60 cents a pound, will provide an appetizing dinner.

Lamb is still one of the least expensive roasts. You can buy a shoulder of lamb for 50 cents a pound.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q "I cannot decide to diet even though I am about 30 pounds overweight, because for the first time I have a nice bustline. It seems that practically all of my weight is in my lower hipline."

A. Of course, with as much as 30 pounds to lose, you will have to diet.

However, if you do not cut calories too drastically and reduce slowly, taking special hip-slimming exercises daily, I think you will remain in good proportion although your bust will become a little smaller. Nevertheless exercise is a great help in bringing the measurements into ratio. When your hips are slimmer your bust will appear to be larger.

Q "I don't feel that I could ask anyone else this. I am 18 years old and for about a week before my periods my breasts become twice their size and are so sore that I could scream. Is this normal? I am afraid that there is really something wrong with me. I wish you would give me an answer in your column because I am so worried."

A. Most women notice that their breasts become larger and are tender for a few days before their periods. This is normal. However, if your condition is as extreme as you indicate I suggest that you see your family physician. I feel sure that there is nothing serious but he can give you any medication he feels you need.

Q "No deodorant seems to check perspiration, just the odor. I perspire very freely even in fairly cool weather. What can I do?"

A. There are different types for underarm use. Be sure that you buy an astringent as well as a deodorant.

Q "Do you advise reducing and exercise for new mothers? My baby is due almost any time. I have gained 40 pounds and want to do something about it as soon as it's permissible."

A. You cannot diet strenuously until after you wean your baby, that is, if you breast feed it. Usually exercise is allowed and even encouraged about six weeks after the baby is born. However, individual cases differ. Follow your doctor's advice about this. When he gives you the green light go after those extra pounds.

DEAR ABBY ...

Addicted and Troubled

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: As I sit here in jail waiting to be transferred to the penitentiary for a narcotics charge, I am terribly troubled.

You see, Miss Abby, I must leave my 17-year-old sister behind and she will be all alone because we have no parents or living relatives. My young sister is also addicted to the drug and I know that when I go to prison she will have to get money for the habit and when you need money for the habit you will do anything to get it. Please advise me what to do. Thank you.

Sincerely yours, W.F.

DEAR W.F.: Tell the magistrate that you must talk to a clergyman. Then tell the clergyman your story. He will arrange for treatments to cure your sister of the drug habit. He will also offer her spiritual guidance to help her to a better way of life. Bless you, and your sister. And good luck!

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and my boyfriend is 19. He is as sweet and thoughtful as a boy can be. He is the greatest as far as personality goes. The only thing wrong with him is that he leaves me home every Saturday night. I guess it may sound strange to you, but he dates me every Friday night and Sunday night, but Saturday night is his night with the guys. No girls... but that doesn't help me.

How can I make him see that I want to go out on Saturday night without sounding like an ungrateful girl?

DEAR BEV: If you don't want to sound like an "ungrateful girl"—stop acting like one. Keep your lip zipped or you'll be staying home every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago my boss' wife (I am his new secretary) sent me one of her potted plants. My boss is very proud of his wife's "green thumb."

I am not very handy with plants, and to be perfectly honest, I didn't pay much attention to it, so it died. Well, what does anybody do with a dead plant? I threw it out.

My boss came to the office yesterday and said she wanted to see how the plant was doing. (Personally, I think she came to look me over.) Instead of telling her the plant died, I lied to her and told her I had taken it home.

My boss tells me it would be nice if I'd bring the plant back to the office in case his wife drops in again to see it. What do I do now?

DEAR TRAPPED: Feas-up and tell your boss the plant died.

New York Charity Ball In 18th Century Theme

PARIS (UPI) — The 1960 "April in Paris" charity ball at the New York Waldorf-Astoria Hotel on April 26 will be as lavish as last year's, the Duke of Brissac, president of the French side of the ball committee, said recently.

The duke held a working dinner party at Maxim's restaurant recently with his French collaborators and Claude Philippe of the New York committee.

"Everything is going on well in the organization of the ball both in France and in the United States," the duke said.

The duke said the theme of the ball this year will be the 18th-century Paris opera "Les Indes Galantes" (the romantic Indies).

This opera was revived with lavish costumes, sets and casting at the Paris opera a few years ago and has had a great success ever since. Women will have to get special hair-dressing, hats and masks in line with the opera.

The duke said organizations which received money from the charity ball "need it as much this year as last year." He said the committee was doing its best to raise more this year.

Last year the ball produced nearly $100,000—a record—which was handed over to French charity organizations both in the United States and in France.

"The April in Paris ball will be again one of the great events of the New York spring season," the duke said, "as well as a tremendous help for non-profit organizations."

Br'er Rabbit Again Lays Colored Eggs

Despite the fact that nobody's ever seen it happen, bunnies this year are again building bird's nests and laying gaily colored eggs—on Easter cards anyway.

Although it might seem difficult to imagine, there is a logical explanation for this usurpation of the bird's role by our long-eared friend, the rabbit.

"The answer is found in German mythology," says the chairman of a well-known greeting card company. "According to this folklore, the rabbit originally was a beautiful pet bird of Eostre, the goddess of spring. She changed the bird into a rabbit—the only animal all children did not fear—so that he could tell the children spring was coming."

But although his mantle has been changed, the Easter bunny cannot forget the fact he was once a bird and so continues to build nests and lay eggs.

Ancient belief also explains why the egg itself has become such an inseparable part of Easter tradition and is featured on so many Easter cards.

"At one time," this greeting card company chairman says, "Pagan peoples believed the world was hatched from an egg. Similarly, it was thought the egg was the beginning of all things. Thus, through the years it became identified with the Resurrection and the new life."

Early Christians consecrated

Lord's Service," and Easter

Rosaries.

On the light-hearted side, there is a card that tells the famous bedtime story of Peter the naughty rabbit, and the "contemporaries," one of which expresses its sentiment this way: "I was going to send you a huge marshmallow—filled rabbit for Easter... but he didn't like marshmallows. Happy Easter anyway!"

In recent years, religious cards have again steadily increased in popularity.

Among the greetings reflecting the religious nature of the occasion, are some featuring writings of world-renowned clergymen Dr. Norman Vincent Peale.

Others are designed to explain to youngsters the true meaning of the Resurrection. There are also cards with special titles to be sent to "Our Minister," "Father," "Our Pastor," "Sister," "To you in the

Paris Fashions No Interest To Russians

PARIS (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev's three daughters took their first look last Friday at the creations of Paris high fashion. Their verdict: "Pretty but impractical."

"We don't want to wear dresses like that in Russia," said daughter Rada after seeing special showings at the houses of Chanel and Dior. "As a matter of fact, French women don't seem to be wearing them either."

"I'll have a lot of nice memories to talk about when I return to Moscow, but you may be sure they won't include French dresses."

Rada and her sisters Julia and Elena appeared to like Chanel's tailored wool suits, but they giggled at the hats resembling bells or flower pots that they saw at Dior's.

Khrushchev's wife Nina, who accompanied the girls to a showing of bargain-basement dresses last week, skipped yesterday's tour of the haute couture.

After visiting an experimental farm, she and France's first lady, Mme. Charles de Gaulle, made an unexpected call at the historic Royal Palace in Fontainebleau, outside Paris.

Silkworms Work Overtime

LONDON (Reuters) — A silk worm farm specializing in royal garments announced recently that it will have enough silk for Princess Margaret's complete wedding dress for nuptials which take place in May.

The farm, owned by Lady Zoe Hart-Dyke, provided silk for a robe ordered by Queen Elizabeth for her second son, born recently.

Reports from the farm, near London, indicate the worms are working overtime spinning silk for their cocoons not because of Margaret's forthcoming wedding to Tony Armstrong-Jones — but because it is the season for it.

Cruise fashions this year stress the cool pastel colors. Favorites are ice blue, parrot pink, mint green, lemon yellow and lilac. Black-and-white combinations are important, too.

The blouse has a toggle fastening at neckline and three-button front with two-buttoned angle-set breast pocket. New British Woollens Now Gay, Adaptable LONDON—Paris fashion designers have always been inspired by the rule that fabrics make the fashion, and British designers now show a strong tendency to work the same way.

British tweeds, always famous at home and abroad, are in higher favor this season than ever before, and in greater variety. But printed wool is new, and is the real new-maker. It is gay and adaptable.

British printed-wool first hit the fashion headlines when a famous milliner used the fabric to copy the Queen's coalmine hat. It has since jumped high as a fashion fabric.

The fabric has the same filmy lightness of the lace tweeds for warm weather, but it also comes in a wide variety of weights. Canadian women are enthused over it, for it is both cool and protective in hot Canadian summers, and its heavier weights are still light for their heated homes in winter.

WOOL LININGS

Printed wool caused a fashion sensation when it was first used as a lining for a coat, but now British, French and Italian designers are all using it. A big lift can be given to an old, but still good suit by using a gay, printed wool lining for the jacket, plus a matching blouse.

Dresses of printed wool divide into two designer camps—the Paisley, dark and bright, and florals either on white or very dark grounds. The latest trend is towards abstract designs with colors tending to run into each other, and "interest" designs with small fruits or other motifs scattered on a dark ground.

Most women love the novelty of a floral frock in almost any season, and printed wool is proving the answer.

MEN LIKE PRINTS

Designers of men's clothes have also plumped for British printed wool fabrics. Men like the dark-colored Paisley designs for dressing gowns, which are warm but not heavy, and for cool sports shirts, which have become very much the thing. They are usually made in cloth weighing from 2 to 4 ounces.

A survey of opinion among British men's wear manufacturers on coming trends in cloth in Canada, does not reveal startling changes, but interesting features are expected to highlight the spring market in Canada.

Materials: Worsteds still out-sell woollens by a very large majority and the demand is still for clear-cut worsteds rather than milled finishes, although there is a steady demand for some novelty fabrics.

Fabric Designs: The Canadian market has a tendency to go all out for the fabric design that is strongly promoted in any given season. For the last two years stripes have had a strong appeal. They seem to be less popular now.

CHECKS ARE IN

The main emphasis is on checks, both large and small. They will take over during 1960. The demand for plain cloths has not diminished, however. There is also some demand for hound's tooth patterns.

Shades: Color is the big news in 1960 fabrics. Shades of brown and ivory and olive tones are becoming more popular than they have been for the last few years and by no means confined to the dark end of the color scale. Greys are still the best selling shades but the trend to brown and its variations is quite noticeable. There are even colors showing components of saffron and gold.

Medium shades are in demand—not the very light shades of 45 years ago nor the charcoal shade of 23 years ago.

Weights: The demand is still for 11-13-ounce cloths for spring and fall; 14-16 ounces for winter, and 74 ounces for summer.

Heavier weights above 16 ounces are not big sellers because of the extensive use of heating in homes, offices, motor cars and aircraft.

However, the recent influx of Europeans to Canada over the past few years has increased the demand for the heavier weights noted above, but this may be temporary.

The trend to even lighter weights for all-year-round use seems to have been halted. The light weights are, of course, a "must" in the summer when the temperature stays around the 90-degree mark for several weeks.

Fry's Jaundice Now 'On the Way'

LONDON (AP) — Jeremy Fry, who was supposed to be best man at the Princess Margaret wedding, has not got jaundice after all—but his doctor says it's on the way.

He's feeling "awful," "lousy," "very seedy indeed"—it depends on which London newspaper you read—and there is no other reason, Fry insists, why he had to drop out as best man for the wedding next month.

This is the summary of today's London newspaper reports on Fry's case of jaundice, a story which most of the local press is carrying with thinly disguised skepticism.

Fry's physician, Dr. H. Gordon Neill, told reporters that his patient "has not got jaundice yet, but it seems to be building up. He is being given the normal treatment for jaundice."

STAYS IN BED

Fry himself is not accepting telephone calls except those concerning his engineering firm.

The London Daily Sketch and The Daily Herald say that a sensational continental magazine planned to print an intimate story of Fry's private life. The papers suggested this may have influenced his decision to drop out as best man in order to avoid any embarrassment to the Royal Family. But neither suggested what, if anything, any magazine could possibly say that would cause embarrassment.

WORLD'S TOP BALLERINA, ULANOVA, IN RETIREMENT

MOSCOW (UPI) — Galina Ulanova, hailed in the Soviet Union as the top ballet dancer of the world, has retired as prima ballerina of the Bolshoi theatre at the age of 50.

Still lithe and blonde after 32 years on the ballet stage, Ulanova retains the power to thrill audiences in Moscow, London, or New York. Her interpretations of three classic roles have become models for all dancers, and she has remained in the top ranks of the world's ballerinas despite the challenge from younger dancers.

Competent ballet sources said her retirement was effective April 1, but it applied only to her regular performances with the Bolshoi group. She still will be called on to play special roles at the Bolshoi, and she may perform in recitals.

Ulanova had been reported retiring for the past 10 years from the strenuous life as star of the ballet company. Audiences have packed her performances recently, expecting each one to be her farewell.

But she continued to dance, and last year led the Bolshoi troupe on a world tour. American audiences cheered and clapped for encores during her performances in her three specialties: "Swan Lake," "Giselle" and "Romeo and Juliet."

Her retirement pension will be 4,000 rubles a month—$400 at the tourist rate of exchange.

'Flu Epidemic Hits in North

EDMONTON (CP) — An "acute" epidemic of influenza has resulted in a quarantine on Coppermine in the Northwest Territories, 1,000 miles north of Edmonton.

Federal northern health officials here said today that 200 of the post's 250 persons are ill and nurses, drugs and oxygen have been flown in or are being flown in.

Coppermine is on Coronation Gulf on the Arctic coast 400 miles north of the Arctic Circle. H. E. Horne of Edmonton, assistant regional superintendent of Indian and northern

Three persons with "lung complications" are being flown to the Charles Camsell Hospital at Edmonton.

Of the 250 persons at Coppermine, 200 are natives.

A quarantine means that as far as possible nobody goes in or out of Coppermine. A health services official said, however, that planes would have to go in and out.

Mr. Horne said a report 16 miles west that there were no "casualties" yet and the epidemic is the "worst ever" in that area.

Bids for Safety In Doorways

The Greater Victoria and District Safety Council wants the National Housing Act amended to prohibit the construction of doorways in homes which open above basement stairs.

The safety council at a meeting Monday passed a motion to this effect after Harry Talbot, president, said all doors at the head of stairs should open on a landing as a safeguard against accidents.

He noted that Workmen's Compensation Board regulations prohibited construction of doors opening above basement stairs.

She told the court that on VE Day, 1945, there was a passionate meeting some place between her and de Payneville's astrol bodies.

As the result, she said, a child was born—13 years later.

Mrs. Bull said she met de Payneville in the flesh for the first time in 1956 while she was doing a house-to-house canvass for a religious sect.

As their friendship deepened their spiritual discussions became a bond between them.

The husband, Albert Edward Bull, said he returned home on one occasion and found de Payneville with his wife. De Payneville was dressed in a brown robe, white rosary, and crucifix.

The judge gave Bull the divorce and custody of two children born earlier in the marriage.

He also ordered the co-respondent to pay $100 in costs.

'ASTRAL UNION'

Baby Born 13 Years Later

LONDON (AP) — A divorce court judge Wednesday rejected a wife's explanation that she gave birth to a child conceived by the spiritual bodies of herself and a man.

Mrs. Olive Day Bull denied ever having intercourse with the co-respondent, Adrian de Payneville.

Music-Dabbling Tot Wrote Masterpiece

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — feature of the annual children's concert at the academy of music.

It is described as strange, brooding, highly original, emotionally way beyond what might be expected even of most adult hopefuls.

"I want to write a little song," he told Samuel Judelson, who complied. The boy went on his creative way.

Although the principal knew that Kenny dabbled in music, he was unprepared for what followed.

When Kenny finished, he hadn't just a little song, but an ambitious work called An Israeli Rhapsody. His parents, Robert and Vera, and his elder brother, Stephen, were moved to tears of admiration. His piano teacher was rhapsodic herself.

The work was entered in a competition and William Smith, assistant conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, chose Kenny's composition as the best and sat down to help the boy with the orchestration.

On Saturday An Israeli Rhapsody will have its premiere performance by the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Art Carney Stars In Conrad Novel, 'Victory,' at 8.30

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

NO GUNS, NO BLOOD—Startime's Tuesday night offering, "Incident at a Corner," neatly proved that television can be highly entertaining without resorting to gun fights, bludgeonings and blood.

Directed by Alfred Hitchcock, Charlotte Armstrong adaptation of one of her own novels sets out to prove the harm an idle or willful word can cause in terms of indignity, scandal, bitterness and injustice. And prove it it did while milking each incident and each scene to the last drop of drama.

It all starts when elderly crossing guard James Medwick checks up chairman of the school safety committee, Mrs. Tawley, for not halting her car when ordered to. She stalks off indignantly calling him "an officious" old man. Before the day is out the word has been construed as "vicious." Medwick has been fired for alleged misconduct with some of the children, his granddaughter Jane, a teacher, has lost her private pupil Ron Tawley, the son of Mrs. Tawley who had called Medwick an "officious" old man.

Then Pat Lawrence, Jane Medwick's fiancé, enters the picture and over-rides the family who would allow the affair to die. He demands that the principle is worthy of the fight, that not one of them should rest until the wrong had been righted and the school board has reinstated Medwick.

Before this has been accomplished each involved has been tainted or touched by the original sin. Yet, cleverly, "Incident at a Corner" allowed the viewer to know its source from the outset although the protagonists and antagonists are kept in the dark. Best of all, the theme showed that the original sin was quite unnecessary, that people mellow as they grow older, forgiving and forgetting as they understand more.

Each was good in his or her role, Paul Hartman as Medwick, Vera Miles as Jane, George Peppard as Lawrence, Leora Dana as Mrs. Tawley and Philip Ober as her husband Malcolm. But in the end it was Hitchcock's direction that made the most out of everything.

The opening scene was especially arresting. For instance who would have dreamed up the idea of showing it three or four times, each depicted from a different angle?

Television needs more such off-beat and engrossing plays.

SICK, SICK, SICK—I was enjoying GM Presents' "The Incredible World of Horace Ford" last Sunday until the ending when toy-designer Horace Ford's (Alan Young) Mickey Mouse watch turned up at his home and he didn't. That's when I rolled into bed to concentrate on cutting out paper dolls rather than on Dr. Zhivago, which was a pity for if ever I needed a doctor I needed one then.

Color, Race Question Hit

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Civil Liberties Union objects to the "color or race" question in the United States census now being taken, and has offered to defend anyone threatened with prosecution for refusing to answer the question in the census forms.

However, census officials said there would be no prosecutions arising from the question.

The ACLU said in a statement Thursday night that as it now stands "the question raises in the minds of many of our people the spectre of some threatened discrimination to be based on the answers they give."

The organization asked the government to instruct the census canvassers to eliminate the question and record no answers to it.

ALWAYS INCLUDED

Census director Robert W. Burgess said in Washington that such a question has been included in every 10-year U.S. census since they started in 1790, adding:

"The subdivision of the population by color or race is an important element of most census bureau tabulations and contributes enormously to the information on the economic and social status of various groups in our population."

Burgess said objections to the question from individuals have been extremely rare.

'Ships, Sailors are Here To Stay'—Flag Officer

The Royal Canadian Navy's defence role is as important as ever in the missile age, Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner told Rotary Club of Victoria Thursday.

Admiral Rayner is both flag officer, Pacific Coast, and commander, maritime defence command, Pacific.

"In simplest terms, the navy's job is to stand on guard for Canada at sea," he said.

"In co-operation with anti-submarine aircraft from the RCAP maritime patrol squadrons, we have to be prepared to keep open the sea lanes to our harbors, and to defend our coast against the threat of missile-carrying submarines, perhaps the gravest threat to this continent.

"I believe this task will continue to be a requirement as long as there is any possibility of war," he continued.

"I also believe that surface ships will share in this task until satellite space stations are able to remove the cloak of evasion from the vastness of the oceans."

Admiral Rayner was convinced ships and sailors are here to stay, despite the tremendous advance of air transport and future possibility of space travel.

"Sea transport remains the cheapest and most economical means of moving bulk cargoes around the earth's surface, 70 per cent of which is covered by oceans."

5,500 HERE

The admiral pointed out the importance of the navy to Victoria's economic life. He said there are about 5,500 naval personnel serving in ship and shore establishments on the west coast, plus about 3,500 civilians who man the dockyard's repair facilities, the supply depots, ammunition depots and naval auxiliary craft.

"The total monthly payroll, both naval and civilian, amounts to approximately $2,500,000, most of which is spent locally," he said. "In recent years, the navy has been disbursing about $38,000,000 a year for food, goods, services and service pay in this area."

"It is estimated the personnel employed by the navy, together with their dependents, represent about 17.5 per cent of the total population of Greater Victoria, or 22,700 out of 130,000."

ISLAND TREK

Catholics To Carry The Cross

Vancouver Island Roman Catholics will carry the Cross from Nanaimo to Victoria in an Easter pilgrimage next week.

Three pilgrims at a time will alternate in carrying the Cross. Leaving St. Peter's Church, Nanaimo, immediately after the noon Mass Wednesday, the pilgrims will trek to Ladysmith and attend the 7.15 p.m. Mass at St. Mary's Church, Ladysmith.

On Thursday they will continue to Chemainus and attend Mass in St. Joseph's Church, Duncan.

DUNCAN STOP

At 5 a.m. Good Friday the pilgrims will trek from Chemainus to Duncan. After a short stop in Duncan, they will continue through Mill Bay to the Dutch Latch Inn on the Malahat.

Easter Saturday they will travel to Langford, arriving about 7 p.m. in time for the Easter services in Our Lady of the Rosary Church.

Easter Sunday the pilgrims will leave Langford at 8 a.m. and arrive at St. Andrew's Cathedral, Victoria, at 10.45 a.m., where Bishop James Hill of Victoria will greet them.

Roman Catholics who wish to join the pilgrimage should get in touch with their parish pastor or parish leader.

Joint Buying Plan May Get Second Look

Mayor Percy Scurrell Thursday said he would be willing to revive a proposal for joint buying by the municipalities.

The idea was discussed and shelved at one time by inter-municipal committee.

"I would be willing to bring it up again," said the mayor.

"It's an excellent idea."

"I would like to see it brought into effect here by the four municipalities, the school board and perhaps the water board."

He was commenting on a Canadian Press report that said savings of up to 25 per cent were realized by joint buying of supplies in Vancouver.

No Dropping From African Trade Show

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Churchill said Thursday it is not possible for the government to take any action towards withdrawal of the Canadian exhibition from South Africa's 50th anniversary exhibition in Johannesburg.

Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, had asked in the Commons whether, "in view of the increasing discrimination against Negroes in South Africa, the government would consider withdrawing the Canadian exhibit."

Mr. Churchill said 80 Canadian manufacturers are exhibiting at the show, engineering equipment being the chief item. It was not possible for the government "as such" to take steps towards closing the exhibit.

The exhibition, celebrating creation of the Union of South Africa, May 31, 1910, opened Monday.

TEACHER BADLY HURT AT SCOTT AND RYAN

'Car Danced Along on Its Roof'

Condition of Mrs. Christine Hartley, 34, of 2700 Asquith, severely injured in a car crash at Scott and Ryan Thursday, was described today as "satisfactory" by Royal Jubilee Hospital officials.

She sustained a broken pelvis and collarbone and severe head cuts when the car she was driving east on Ryan flipped over after a collision with a car driven south on Scott by Richard F. Saunders, 1632 Kings Road.

Eyewitness George Murphy, 1731 Newton, said the car when he saw it was "already in the air," and "it danced along on its roof, like a bull-frog."

Victor Merriman, 1745 Newton, said the other car, a small foreign make, skidded a long way before "nosing under" the woman's car, flipping it over.

Skid marks of the smaller car carried on nearly 50 feet.

"Every day we hear squawking of brakes there. It's a bad corner. They need stop signs there, or something," he said.

Residents of the area had already petitioned city council for traffic controls.

The injured woman, a substitute teacher at Oaklands School, was taken to hospital by passerby Gerald Wray, 1339 Cordova Bay Road.

last year claimed the life of Edward D. Miles, 3366 Wordsworth, a Victoria Press printer.

Police Chief John Blackstock said he could see no cause for the rash of accidents and near-accidents at the intersection apart from "careless driving."

He said there are "far worse" city intersections "and yet the more dangerous corners have far less accidents."

A bystander at the accident scene, William Skibo, 2759 Belmont, was involved in a crash at the intersection himself two weeks ago.

"There should be stop signs at least, if not a traffic light," he said.

City traffic assistant Jack Reid said later that traffic controls will be installed, but not until a supporting bylaw is passed.

Without the bylaw the controls would be "meaningless" in the event of a court case, he said.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Thursday:

Donald Edward Tyrrell, 3981 Wilkinson, $10 for passing another vehicle on the right.

Paul Severny, 308 Zealous, and Alfred T. Neale, 2530 Windsor, $40 each for careless driving.

Aurelio Bove, Alpine Auto Court, $100 for driving while under suspension.

BUTANE AS CAR FUEL STUDIED IN ALBERTA

CALGARY (CP)—Studies are being made of the possibility of using butane as fuel for automobiles, H. A. Spencer of the Research Council of Alberta, said Thursday.

He told the annual convention of the Liquefied Petroleum Gas Association that the studies were prompted by the vast quantities of butane available in Alberta. Butane is a by-product of natural gas.

Sheila. Parents fear Alsations which killed little, long-haired Dachshund could attack youngsters, now that they've had taste of blood.

TASTE OF BLOOD MAY SPARK FURTHER VIOLENCE, SAYS CHIEF

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Oak Bay police today admitted that four Alsations which killed a small dog on Deal Street Wednesday could be a "potential" danger to children. The Alsations owned by Mrs. A. M. Macknight, 1008 Deal, escaped from their yard and killed a 10-pound Dachshund belonging to Peter Henderson, a neighbor on the same street. Mr. Henderson now fears that if the dogs escape again they may attack his four children as they always played with the Dachshund, named "Sniffer".

He has complained to the police. Chief Robert Smith said the case will be brought up at the next meeting of the police commission Wednesday.

POTENTIAL DANGER

"There is always a possibility that a dog which has tasted blood may attack again," said the chief. "There is a potential danger that the Alsations could associate the children with the Dachshund."

Police said the Alsations have never been allowed to wander about unattended, but somehow escaped from their yard Wednesday.

The killing took place in Mr. Henderson's front yard. Neighbors said the killing was a "pure case" of revenge on the part of the Alsations.

Apparently "Sniffer" had a habit of barking and growling at the Alsations who were fenced in and could not get out of their yard. But on Wednesday morning, the Alsations did get out and in a matter of minutes killed "Sniffer."

Mrs. Macknight said it was the first time her dogs had ever got out of the yard. "I feel sorry for the people who lost their pet," she said. "But our dogs are not vicious. They are accustomed to children. One of the Alsations is a show dog."

FADEOUT FOR JACK-HAMMER SERENADE

By JOHN MIKA

Victoria's multi-million-dollar downtown underground wiring project enters its last lap this summer. Begun in 1956 by B.C. Electric, the 30-block grid of sub-surface wiring will be in complete operation about the middle of 1962 when the last overhead power pole comes down.

Between now and then, here's what happens:

By the end of this month all excavation work for ducts and transformer vaults will be completed downtown.

About mid-June a contract will be let for stringing wire through the ducts and installing transformers.

This fall, the final excavation work will start to provide an underground link between Horseley substation on Summit and the downtown area.

Next spring the wiring program, probably will be completed and the progressive removal of power poles will start.

Poles will be removed and underground connections to the 400 buildings in the area will be switched on in a "phased" program until the job is finished in mid-1962.

The six-year project will give Victoria the first pole-less downtown area for any Canadian city of its size.

By the end of this year, BCE will have spent $2,700,000 on the project. The investment will provide improved power supply to the downtown area as well as beautify it.

Affected are 30 blocks bounded by Government, Blanshard, Herald and Belleville.

The excavation program was carried out during the winter months of 1956-57, 1957-58 and 1959-60 to avoid disrupting the tourist season.

It has provided jobs for about 100 men, on the average, during peak unemployment periods.

When the final phase begins, Victorians will hardly notice it after three years of picking their way through rubble-strewn streets being opened up by noisy air hammers and dynamite charges.

Some 55,800 cubic yards of material were excavated during those years and 20,000 yards of back fill dumped into the holes.

About 15,300 cubic yards of concrete and 207 tons of reinforcing steel were used to build the underground grid for 128 miles of four-inch ducts, 244 manholes and 38 transformer vaults.

In the final phase, the streets will be quiet and clean as reels of wire are unwound from trucks and threaded through the ducts.

Some 37,000 feet of main cables, 78,600 feet of secondary wires and 40,000 feet of connecting wires will be strung through the grid. Seventy transformers will be installed.

Block by block, the 200 poles and 254,000 feet of overhead wires will be removed.

ONE OF MANY WORKERS who help keep Butchart Gardens at their beautiful best is Miss Elis Westra, who learned her love of flowers in Holland. Spring flowers are now at their peak; starting Saturday, the Gardens will be reopened to the public. During April, hours will be from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. (Svendsen Photo.)

MONTE ROBERTS

My old buddy-buddy Don Tyerman was in town this week, and this gives me an excuse to address a message to the younger generation.

Because my old buddy-buddy Don Tyerman sets a fine example for the younger generation to follow.

Some years back (never mind how many) my old buddy-buddy was a devotee of the game of Canadian football.

He was attached to the Vancouver Athletic Club team and was, indeed, one of its most dedicated members. While teammates relaxed during the off-season, Tyerman went through a self-imposed training routine.

Even in the heat of the summer, he conscripted friends and neighbors to toss the football around. He did his daily setting up exercises, ran a prescribed distance each day.

All year round he watched his diet and his weight. But as the season approached, his regimen intensified.

In the weeks before the first game, his waking moments were filled with nothing but football.

He memorized plays and signals. He practiced diligently, not only in his own position, but the other positions so he could take over in case of emergency.

Tyerman sometimes sneaked into the practices of opposing teams to see what competition could be expected.

He even made the supreme sacrifice of eating not one, but two, blood-rare steaks for lunch, the better to get his strength up.

Naturally, he tasted not of the alcoholic beverage, nor did a cigarette, cigar, or pipe lure him from his spartan course.

Now, in case the younger generation is wondering why I am relating all this in such great detail, it is because they should be inspired by the way old buddy-buddy Tyerman's diligence paid off.

Came the first day of the season. The VAC's were playing against their bitterest rivals, the Meralomas.

Tyerman was playing right end, trotting back and forth nervously, awaiting the kick-off.

Came the kick-off—the very first play of the very first game of the season.

And do you know what Tyerman did on that play?

He fell down and broke his leg and was out for the rest of the season, that's what he did.

Truly, an inspiration to the younger generation.

WEEKEND WEATHER 'BUMPY' —ONLY A LITTLE SUN DUE

A drabish weekend, with a few showers and some rare sunny periods, are in view for Victoria following a rainy Thursday, during which an all-time temperature record was equaled.

Official thermometer climbed to 63 degrees to match the long-standing record for April 7. Minimum tonight will be 45 degrees, and the maximum Saturday will be 55 degrees.

Visiting weatherman Jack Kernode forecast clouds and a few showers for tonight and Saturday, with light winds. His prediction for Sunday is for more cloud, but with a few sunny periods.

Funeral Tuesday For Stan Taylor

One of British Columbia's best-known civil servants died Thursday in a Calgary hotel. Walter Stanley Taylor, registrar of companies and supervisor of co-operatives, passed away while returning from a convention of the Canadian Co-operative Association in Banff.

He was 63. Mr. Taylor had suffered from a heart condition for the last five years.

Mr. Taylor had a distinguished armed forces, business and government service record.

PILOT

Born in Vancouver in 1896, he received primary and secondary education there and later attended McGill University. At the outbreak of the First World War he joined the Royal Flying Corps, was commissioned as pilot and served for four years.

Called to the bar July 3, 1922, he practised law at Prince Rupert with the firm of William and Manson, the latter now a judge of the B.C. Supreme Court.

Subsequently he returned to Vancouver where he continued his practice with Williams and Manson, later going into partnership with Vancouver barrister David Sigler.

OVERSEAS

He joined the Royal Canadian Air Force shortly after the start of the Second World War, rising to the rank of squadron leader. His administrative duties led him overseas.

He joined the B.C. government as registrar of companies in 1945. Until a few years ago he was also superintendent of insurance and real estate in B.C.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner, under whose aegis the companies' department comes, said today: "I feel a deep sense of personal loss at the death of Stanley Taylor. I knew him prior to coming to government and enjoyed the finest relationships with him over the past eight years. Mr. Taylor was extremely well known to the legal profession. Under his direction the companies branch became synonymous with fast and courteous service to the profession and the public. He will be sorely missed in the department and by all his friends."

Mr. Taylor is survived by the widow, Marjorie Eileen; a daughter, Mrs. John Coppinger; one grandson, Allan Bruce; a sister, Mrs. F. R. Anderson, Vancouver; three brothers, Sydney and George of Vancouver; William, Salt Lake City.

Rev. Douglas Kendall will conduct funeral services at 2 p.m. Tuesday from McCall's Interment will be at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Phone Exchange Contract Given For $30,000

A $30,000 contract has been awarded to J. A. Pollard Ltd. for construction of a two-storey addition to B.C. Telephone Company's Colquitz exchange building on Wilkinson Road.

The masonry structure will be 29 feet by 56 feet. The building addition is scheduled for completion in August.

Telephone company officials said automatic equipment valued at $38,500 will be installed this year in the present building, and that $123,000 is to be spent for equipment in the new addition.

More Terms Handed Out For Burglary

Teddy Frank Hanaka, 18, of 810 Esquimalt, in city and Saanich courts today was sentenced to five concurrent terms of one year definite and six months indefinite on burglary charges.

Defence counsel Alan Bigelow said Hanaka's "biggest failing is that he is not too bright—a very limited intelligence."

Hanaka was one of a group of youths facing similar charges in city, Saanich and Esquimalt courts.

FOUR OF SAME

Thursday, four other youths were sentenced for the same "group" infractions.

Wayne Doersam, 20, of 1203 Blanshard, convicted on a joint charge with two others for breaking, entering and intent to steal at Newcastle Motors Ltd., 1623 Hillside, on March 27.

The other three, who each pleaded guilty to burglary and theft charges, Thursday morning got sentences ranging from nine months in young offenders' unit to two years in B.C. Penitentiary.

This trio, Leonard Bell, 19, of 1707 Carrick; Stephen B. White, 18, of 798 Lampson, and Russell Clouston, 18, Devonshire Hotel, also appeared in Saanich police court Thursday afternoon and were sentenced to terms concurrent with those imposed in the city.

CAR TAKING TOO

The charges in both courts were mainly for burglary but three were for taking autos without the consent of owners.

Three youths have yet to be sentenced after entering pleas of guilty to burglary and theft charges, and one is awaiting preliminary hearing after electing trial by a higher court on a charge of breaking into a grocery.

Chisholm to Speak

Dr. Brock Chisholm will speak on "Growing Up in a New Kind of World" at a meeting of Colwood PTA to be held in Colwood elementary school Tuesday at 8 p.m.

ONE OF CITY'S BEST-KNOWN SEAFARING MEN Caddy's 'Co-Discoverer' Dies —He Defied Ridicule in '33

Frederick William Kemp, one of Victoria's best-known seafaring men and a "co-discoverer" of Caddy the Sea Serpent, died in the Veterans' Hospital Thursday, aged 78.

The story of Caddy goes back to Oct. 5, 1933, when The Times announced that a sea serpent had been seen off Cadboro Bay by Mr. Kemp, then with the Provincial Archives, and Major W. H. Langley, clerk of the B.C. Legislature.

Defying all ridicule, Mr. Kemp and Major Langley insisted they had seen a serpent in the bay, and within a few days other citizens of repute substantiated their story.

Caddy (properly styled Cadborosaurus) had been a local legend ever since with hundreds of residents and visitors claiming to have seen him.

But it was as an old seafarer, a maker of model ships and a good friend with an undying love of the sea that Mr. Kemp was best known to Victoria.

The descendant of an old naval family, he first went to sea at 13. He was two years under sail; served aboard a minesweeper in the North Sea; worked for the Anthony Drexel family on their private yacht, which went around the world; and for many years shuttled immigrants from Europe to the United States.

OVER STERN

"In the early days," he said, "we never saw butter, sugar or milk and we towed the beef over the stern three or four days before we could cook it." Mr. Kemp first came to B.C. in 1910 when he was offered a job in the Queen Charlotte Islands. He went to work at a fishing station called Pacofi.

He liked the Queen Charlottes.

"One day," he said, "they will come into their own. Their potential wealth has only been scratched."

Mr. Kemp came to live in Victoria in 1925 when he joined the staff of the Provincial Archives. He lost his wife nearly 10 years ago and went to live with his son Jack in a small house on Crescent Road, close by the sea.

OLD-SALTS

Mr. Kemp was a prominent member of the Thermopylae Club, Victoria's group of old salts and ship-lovers and was associated with the Maritime Museum at Esquimalt. In recent years he lived at 1308 Dallas Road.

He leaves his son Jack, 1975 Lee Avenue, Victoria; four sisters and one brother in England.

Funeral services will be held at Hayward's Chapel next Tuesday at 11 a.m. followed by committal at Royal Oak Burial Park.

A. No, it comes fourth. Latest figures show construction accounted for 18.4 of industrial accidents in Canada; manufacturing, 16 per cent; mining, 15.7 per cent, and logging, 13 per cent.

Tighter Control of CBC Asked

OTTAWA (CP)—Jean Noel Tremblay (PC, Roberval, Que.) called today for tighter government control of the publicly-owned CBC to end the "climate of immorality" it has produced and the "incompetence" in its administration.

He said in the Commons budget debate that the government should give one minister "immediate" control over CBC operations. A deputy minister should act as liaison between the CBC and the government.

Jet Fighter Pilots Survive Collision

METZ, France (CP)—Officials of Canada's NATO Air Division announced that two RCAF pilots parachuted to safety today after their Sabre jet fighters collided over West Germany.

The pilots, P.O.R. W. Hallworth, 25, of Taber, Alta., and P.O.W. L. Riley of Squilax, B.C., were picked up by a United States Air Force helicopter after the accident, which occurred a few miles north of Landsuhl, and flown to the USAF base at Ramstein. Both escaped injury.

THE REAL REASON?

Ex-Best Man Fined
For Being Drunk

TORONTO (UPI)—The Toronto Telegram said today a photostat of a news story printed eight years ago in a Bristol paper is understood to be the real cause of Jeremy Fry's resignation as best man at Princess Margaret's forthcoming wedding.

The Telegram said in a report from its London correspondent Jane Armstrong that the photostat was circulated in Fleet Street newspaper of which Fry was a member.

"Almost immediately after the wedding, Mr. Fry left Britain for a skiing holiday at Davos, Switzerland," the newspaper said.

The reason for the unexpected holiday, he said, was to "get fully fit" after an attack of jaundice last November, the Telegram said.

The newspaper item it referred to was published in 1952 in the Western Daily Press, a Bristol morning newspaper. It concerned a magistrate's court case in which Mr. Fry was fined 40 shillings ($6) following an admission of drunkenness.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver was three strokes off their course.

'WALKED INTO SIDE OF CAR'

Inquest Monday
In First Death

An inquest is tentatively scheduled for Monday into the traffic death Thursday night of Joseph Henry Walsh, 64, Greater Victoria's first traffic fatality of the year.

From papers in the victim's pockets, police found the name and address of a son in California who is being contacted.

Walsh was staying in Victoria or other details, but police hope the son can supply relevant information.

The elderly man was walking east across Douglas at Cormorant about 10:30 p.m. when he was in collision with a car driven by Errol T. Hunter, 374 Spartan.

William Nuttall, 114 Government, an eyewitness, said the victim was on the crosswalk and "seemed to walk into the side of the car. Then he fell over."

The body is at Sand's Mortuary.

ARMS CONFERENCE

Soviet Plan
Asks Pledge

GENEVA (Reuters)—Russia called today on the world's nuclear powers to make a solemn pledge never to be the first to use nuclear weapons.

Vaierian Zorin, chief Soviet delegate, called for the pledge as an act of goodwill as he presented a five-point document as a proposed basis of negotiation at the 10-power disarmament conference here.

But Western conference sources said the new document represented no change in the Soviet position and would not help break the deadlock which has developed here following each side's rejection of the other's disarmament proposals.

In addition to the pledge not to use nuclear weapons first, Zorin called for discussion on:

1. The scope of disarmament measures.
2. Stages in which disarmament would be completed.
3. Control system provisions.
4. The position at the end of disarmament.

LEAD TO AGREEMENT

Zorin argued that the pledge on nuclear arms would create appropriate conditions for an early agreement on a disarmament treaty.

He said the states with nuclear arms participating in the talks here—the United States, Russia, Britain and France—should "solemnly declare that they renounce to be the first to use such weapons."

Western delegations—the U.S., Britain, France, Italy and Canada—said they would study Zorin's document, but their first reaction was that it contained nothing new.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC) said today it will oppose the plans of the Peace River Power Development Company at a Public Utilities Commission hearing.

He did not expect opposition to the brief from construction unions in northern B.C. who might benefit from the project.

Hardly anyone recognized Prince Charles, aged 11.

Beside him was his sister, nine-year-old Princess Anne.

They saw Sink the Bismarck and a series of newsreels on the life of Princess Margaret.

At Stricter
Censorship

CAPETOWN, South Africa (Reuters)—The government has introduced a bill aimed at outlawing "undesirable" newspapers, magazines, books, movies, phonograph records and other entertainment.

The bill, however, has been referred to a committee and may be amended.

Under the present bill, reading and other materials would be considered "undesirable" if they endanger the safety of the state, have the effect of disturbing the peace or offend the feelings of any section of the country's multi-racial population.

Enforcement regarding newspapers would be left up to the government with prosecution instituted only on the authority of the attorney-general. But a publications board or council would have jurisdiction concerning other reading material, films, records and entertainment. These media could take their cases to a board of appeal which would have the final decision.

FINE OR JAIL

A first offence in both fields, sources say, would be punishable with a maximum £100 fine, three months in jail or both. Subsequent offences could draw fines of £200, a year in jail, or both.

South African newspapers have been cautious to avoid being accused of inciting the people. Johannesburg newspapers informed their readers this week that they were forbidden under the emergency regulations from carrying certain stories.

The Nationalist newspaper Vanderland reported that censorship may be imposed on dispatches by foreign correspondents because their reports about racial clashes are getting back to South Africa.

London newspapers sell out quickly the minute they appear or the stands here. Many South Africans think they are not getting the full story of the racial strife in their own country and thus they buy foreign newspapers available. The Associated Press reports. External Affairs Minister Eric Louw told Parliament that many overseas journalists who came to South Africa send "wildly exaggerated and in many cases completely untrue reports" to their newspapers and agencies.

The minister said the South African Information Service daily supplies its information officers abroad with factual information.

TO SPARK TORCH

ROME (AP)—"Fanny the Flame" is about to become the first flat-chested woman ever to attract much attention in this land of luscious Latins.

The near-nude, 14-foot-high bronze figure will thrust the Olympic torch skyward in front of the new sports palace at the 1960 Rome Games.

She's a long-legged gal with curvy hips and a well-rounded tummy. But one of the big mysteries of the coming Olympics is almost sure to be: Why does she wear that shoestring bra?

She couldn't need one less. Even her sculptor says the bra covers not even a hidden meaning.

"I was concentrating everything on the torch she bears," said sculptor Emilio Greco. "The only reason for the other lines are stylistic and architectural. There is no hidden meaning."

The shoestring bra and an equally thin hand around the bulging hips were put on "just because it looked better that way," Greco explained.

"And aren't the knees a little knobby?" Greco was asked.

"She represents sport," the sculptor explained. "Sport cannot be depicted by soft lines."

The statue was ordered by the Italian Olympic committee to be placed in front of the sports palace where Olympic boxing and basketball will be held. It is being cast in bronze now and will be completed by July.

Greco, at 46, is one of Italy's greatest sculptors. His works are in major museums around the world.

BUT BOARD WILL RECONVENE

11% Boost for Police,
Firemen Will Stand

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks today announced he will convene an arbitration board with instructions to clarify a technical point in its recent wage increase award to city police and firemen.

But the review will be restricted "to one specific point" and will not involve the 11-per-cent boost.

Mayor Percy Scourrah, who led a delegation which asked for a review of the entire award, said the Union of B.C. Municipalities will be asked to propose "an improvement" to the Municipal Act which would set up special arbitration machinery for such disputes.

'Invite Disaster'
Commons Told

LONDON (CP)—The House of Commons today passed a resolution condemning South African racial policies and asking the government to take up the issue at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference next month.

The private motion, by Labor MP John Stonehouse, was approved by a voice vote.

Conservative, Labor and Liberal MPs joined in unusually strong attacks on the policies of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd.

Stonehouse urged South African whites to "recognize the insanity of apartheid" and be prepared to negotiate with African leaders.

"If they go on with this insane military dictatorship in an attempt to suppress 11,000,000 people, they are inviting disaster and widespread violence," he warned.

The motion was supported by Sir Godfrey Nicholson, Conservative, who said "utter catastrophe may result" unless South Africans accept the need for a multi-racial society.

C. J. M. Alport, minister of state for Commonwealth relations, told the House he was against putting the issue on the formal conference agenda.

ARRESTS CONTINUE

2 Main Negro

CAPETOWN (CP)—The South African government today outlawed the country's two main Negro organizations while police swooped down on more opponents of repressive racial laws.

The ban on the powerful In the first raid, 258 persons were arrested.

African National Congress and its more militant offshoot, the Pan-Africanist Congress, was announced in Parliament by Justice Minister Francois Erasmus.

It came as security police carried out co-ordinated raids in widely-scattered parts of the country, arresting more than 100 men and women of all races. The roundup was the second under emergency regulations proclaimed March 30.

to carry identity passes.

Suspects Snatched From Beds

The main centres of today's arrests were Capetown, Johannesburg, Durban, Port Elizabeth and Pretoria. Many of those taken into custody were ordered out of their beds before dawn and driven off to local police stations.

But police found that several persons they wanted to arrest had disappeared from their homes.

Erasmus told Parliament the ban on the ANC and the Pan-Africanist movement would remain in force until April 6 next year. Legislation empowering the government to outlaw the organizations was passed by Parliament earlier this week, with only two Senate representatives of Negro interests opposing the bill.

Despite the fact that the government now appears to have blunted the Negro stay-home protests, it has called up more military reservists.

But the calm that prevailed was uneasy. Breaking into a play, the South African Broadcasting Corporation Thursday night read a long list of reservists and ordered them to report for duty immediately.

Radio Callup Has Air of Urgency

The callup carried an air of urgency, but there was no indication on how the additional troops would be used. Soldiers have been supporting the police in the government's campaign to root out "agitators, terrorists and gangsters."

The Witwatersrand Rifles Infantry Regiment, one of the most recently mobilized, was posted at an airport east of Johannesburg, presumably to be flown to any trouble spot on quick notice.

NEW PRINCE BAPTIZED AT PALACE

LONDON (UPI)—Prince Andrew of Britain was christened today in the gown his mother wore at her own christening.

Some 60 persons—members and friends of the Royal Family—attended the christening in the music room of Buckingham Palace, the same one in which Prince Charles and Princess Anne were christened.

Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, the Archbishop of Canterbury, performed the standard Church of England christening service with water from the River Jordan.

Andrew wore the historic robe of Honiton lace, handed down in the Royal Family from the days of Queen Victoria.

AIRLINER SABOTAGED?

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—Dutch air officials today ordered police to investigate the possibility of attempted sabotage of a KLM airliner which crashed off Ireland in 1958, killing 99 persons.

The president of the inquiry board said it has received information "which makes it desirable to investigate whether the liner had one or more persons on board whose disappearance might have been sought for political or similar reasons."

FIVE GODPARENTS

The seven-week-old Prince had five godparents: The Duke of Gloucester, Princess Alexandra, Lord Elphinstone (the Queen's cousin) and two lifelong friends of the Queen, the Earl of Euston and Mrs. Harold Phillips.

At the Queen's order, no photographs were taken for publication. But Prince Philip the liner had one or more persons on board whose disappearance might have been sought for political or similar reasons.

Suspects Snatched From Beds

The work situation was more nearly normal today than at any time since Negro demonstrations against carrying identification passes flared into violence three weeks ago.

Thousands of Negroes who burned their passes at the height of the campaign of defiance have applied for new ones. They must have these "internal passports" to move around or work.

The Associated Press reported that most Negroes now appear to be back at work in disregard of the campaign of the now-outlawed militant leaders to keep them home in protest.

But the calm that prevailed was uneasy.

Most of their leaders joined the Negroes so far were accepting with outward docility the revival of the pass law, which was suspended temporarily after the bloody demonstrations of March 21. Police and troops met no resistance in their raid Thursday on the big Negro township of Nyanga East, but released all but 162 after screening.

Sacks of weapons—guns, knives, and other weapons—were seized in the settlements, scene of bloody clashes Monday.

Col. I. P. Terblanche, deputy police commissioner of Cape Town, said the Negroes in the settlement had been "living in a reign of terror," and that the cleanup raids were being carried out to give protection to law-abiding Negroes.

Fairclough Ducks Query On Rebrin

OTTAWA (UPI)—Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough today dodged an Opposition request to make public full details behind the government's decision to deport University of British Columbia language expert Irene Rebrin.

The minister told the Commons that her statement on Thursday, in which she said the government had classified "security" reasons for supporting the deportation order, was a full one.

The request for details was made by W. H. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West). He said the full story should be revealed "in the name of justice and fairness" to the 33-year-old Miss Rebrin, who claims she has no idea why she was refused permanent entry.
